LAWRENCE GIRL KIDNAPPED

LOWELL BOY ON ONE OF SEVEN DESTROYERS WRECKED IN PACIFIC

John J. Thyne, Cook on U. S. S. Nicholas, Writes Vivid Pen Picture of Point Honda Disaster—Newspaper Clipping Tells How He Made Coffee for Mates While Standing Waist High in Water—Saved on Life Rafts After Night of Horror

The story of how a Lowell boy, John J. Thyne, cook on the U. S. S. Nicholas, one of the seven torpedo boats destroyed when dashed against the rocks of Point Honda, off Santa Barbara, Cal., returned to his galley after the crash and in spite of water which at times stood as high as his waist, made a fire and boiled coffee for his companions, has just reached this city.

It is the story of how some men just don't know when to quit.

An intimate pen picture of the disaster is contained in a letter from Thyne received today by his uncle, John J. Thyne of 35 Prescott street, enclosing also a clipping from the San Diego Evening Tribune which tells of the Lowell seaman's coffee-making while his ship was being pounded to pieces by the wind-swept waves of the Pacific.

The destroyer Nicholas struck the rocks and was wrecked.

SPEAKER SAYS 227 IN HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES AND 27 IN U. S. SENATE MEMBERS OF KLAN

Rev. Basil E. Newton Declares K. K. K. Held Initiation in Dining Room of White House—Another Klan Leader Says Five of Harding Cabinet Members of Klan—Report "Ridiculous," Say White House Officials

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 22.—That the K. K. K. held an initiation in the dining room of the White House, was the statement of the Rev. Basil E. Newton of Oklahoma, representing the Klan imperial council, in an address to a large audience of Klansmen and others at Hurricane last night during a Klan celebration of the opening of the Charleston-Huntington road.

"We have 227 in the house of representatives and 27 in the United States senate," the speaker said, "and we held one initiation in the dining room of the White House. You know what that means."

"He forgot to mention five members of the Harding cabinet," Dr. V. T. Churchman of Charleston, head of the Klan organization in this section, whispered to a newspaperman beside him.

Klansmen from Charleston, Huntington and other West Virginia and Kentucky communities affected by the opening of the road made up the greater part of the audience.

"Ridiculous," Says White House
WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The statement of the Rev. Basil E. Newton at Charleston, W. Va., that an initiation of Klansmen had been held in the White House was declared today by White House officials to be "too ridiculous to discuss."

Adelard Chatter was sentenced to serve two months in the house of correction by Judge Enright, in district court this morning, for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and for operating after his license had been revoked. He was ordered to pay a fine of $50. For drunkenness a fine of $5 was imposed. He appealed and was held in lieu of $500.

Charlier, who was arrested on the Pawtucket boulevard yesterday afternoon, by Motorcycle Officer Charles A. Hamilton, pleaded guilty to all complaints. Deputy Downey introduced a certificate showing that Charlier had been fined $50 in the district court in Lawrence, last April, for operating while under the influence of liquor.

Peter Dusowicz was found guilty on a charge of illegal keeping of liquor and as it was his second conviction on a similar complaint he was ordered committed for one month and also to pay a fine of $100. He appeared.

Thomas L. Grady was charged with illegal keeping and also with maintaining a liquor nuisance, but the court was not satisfied on the evidence offered in support of the latter complaint and this was dismissed.

Mike Kachavoulas likes to deal with big money. Mary Riatano Seized and Put Into Machine Which Sped Away Toward Lawrence

Police Say Others Waiting With Girl for Trolley Made No Effort to Help Her

METHUEN, Sept. 22.—Mary Riatano, 20, a Lawrence mill worker, was kidnapped about 6.30 this morning by two men in a closed automobile, according to a report made to the police by the girl's father, Vito Riatano. He said that while his daughter was waiting for a car near Phippen's turnout on the Lowell-Lawrence road, the automobile stopped and the men got out. One of them threw a blanket over the girl's head, and she was put in the machine, and it was driven rapidly away toward Lawrence. Others who were waiting for the same car made no effort to prevent the girl being taken away, the police say.

TAXPAYERS WHO WILL CONTRIBUTE HEAVILY TO SUPPORT OF CITY

Stevens Trust Again Heads List of Individuals With Total Tax Amounting to $33,926.20—Tremont & Suffolk, With Assessment of $163,112.18, Leads All Corporations—Massachusetts Mills Second in Line

The 1923 list of heavy taxpayers compiled today shows the Stevens Trust at the head of the list with a total tax to be paid into the city coffers of $33,926.20. Of the corporations, the Tremont & Suffolk, as was the case last year, blows the way with a tax amount of $163,112.18.

A study of the tax list of this year, paying particular attention to totals of more than $1000 among the individuals, shows an increasing number of outside property owners, especially in Lawrence, although this list does not contain as many Lawrence addresses as one might be led to expect from the many real estate transactions recorded in which the names of down-river operators appear.

The entire list varies very little from last year. The big taxpayers still retain their relative positions or very nearly so and only a comparatively few new names appear in the "select circle."

In addition to the Stevens Trust other individuals who pay royally to the city for property owned and the amount assessed against each include: Arthur G. Pollard, $24,653.48; Paul E. Continued to Page 3

Giants Need But Four More Victories To Clinch Nat. League Pennant

DOUBLE VICTORY FOR GIANTS OVER PIRATES INCREASES LEAD

World's Champions Now Need Only Four of the Eight Remaining Games to Land Flag—Heilmann Continues to Lead American League Batters

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The Giants today won a double victory over the Pirates in Pittsburgh, winning 3 to 1 and 5 to 1 and now need only four of the eight remaining games to land the national league pennant and secure the playing of the entire world's series in New York.

The Giants knocked the ball to various far corners of the field for 14 hits in the first contest and nine in the second. In each game they did all the winning in one inning.

Cincinnati beat Brooklyn, 4 to 2, in an Atlantic battle. The winning run came over when Hargrave walked with two out and scored on a triple by Funch.

The Red Sox broke even with the Tigers, winning the first game, 4 to 3, and losing the second, 15 to 6, when the Red Sox crushed their rivals with a grand slam in the eighth and lost out one after another, scoring in all but three innings.

Heilmann Holds Lead

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Harry Heilmann of Detroit continues to lead the batter in the American league, but his margin over Babe Ruth is considerably less than last week, for Ruth maintained his lead of 235 while Heilmann dropped from 345 to 331, according to averages for games through last Wednesday, released today. Speaker, second of Cleveland, rank third and Sewell of Cleveland, rank third and

RUTH MOST VALUABLE PLAYER IN LEAGUE

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(By the Associated Press.)—Babe Ruth of the New York Americans is the player regarded by the baseball writers of the major league circuits as having been of most value to his club during 1923. He was the unanimous choice of the committee of eight, obtaining 64 points on a basis of eight points for selection for first place on each ball.

Last year, the first of such a selection, George Sisler of the St. Louis Americans, was given 50 points, and Ruth was ignored.

Ruth's name will go down in history as the second on the list inscribed in baseball's hall of fame, the $100,000 monument to be erected at Washington, and he will receive the American League trophy.

Ruth's efforts have given him the league leadership in these departments:

Home runs, 37; runs scored, 134; total bases, 356; bases on balls received, 156, a new record, and 154 hits, which include 22 doubles and 11 triples. Ruth is only a step behind Harry Heilmann of Detroit for the leadership in batting.

Eddie Collins of the Chicago White Sox was given second place in the selection with 40 points and Heilmann, with 31.

The award was made by a committee of eight baseball writers, one in each city, each of whom selected the best players of the season on each team and rank them according to his opinion on a basis of eight points, each place being given eight points, second place seven, and so on. The members of the trophy committee are:

J. C. O'Rourke, Boston; Harry Kelly, Chicago; H. P. Edwards, Cleveland; H. C. Sagerman, Detroit; W. B. Hargrave, Philadelphia; Phil J. L. Wray, St. Louis; and Ben M. Thompson, Washington. H. C. Sagerman is chairman of the committee.

Twenty players are figured in the voting for the trophy this year, the official ballot of the first 11 of which follows:

Player	Position	Club	Points
George H. Ruth	cf	New York	64
Edward T. Collins	2b	Chicago	40
Harry B. Heilmann	1b	Detroit	31
Walter G. Gower	ss	St. Louis	23

George H. Plate	1b	Cleveland	13

Joe H. Ryan, second baseman for Boston, scored three points.

Kinks o' the Links

In stroke competition, a player has the right to ask a referee concerning the best possible way to play his next shot.

A player can seek advice from his caddy, but not from his partner. For such a breach of etiquette a player is disqualified.

In a 36-hole play it is not until the end of the tournament and before the play of the next day that the referee is called to play the ball, what is the proper procedure? If a player is a single hole, if the rules call for 15 holes and at the end of the play the scores are equal, what shall be done?

The "kink" play can be decided by a caddy, but if at the end of a tournament, two players are tied for first place, it is necessary that they play an extra hole to decide the question of supremacy, the lowest score in the play to be the winner. If at the end of 18 holes of play the match is again tied, the players must again play a full round.

Player after taking the green and standing on the putting green with the cup to the left and a direct line with the hole, the player takes to penalty for so doing.

A player has no right to so mark the line of putt. The line of putt must not be touched, except by the player, immediately in front of the ball in the act of addressing it, prior to trying to sink the putt. The player can be penalized by the loss of the hole.

Which Sport Is More Scientific?

"RUTH IS AN EXAMPLE OF AN INDIVIDUAL PLAYER"

"BASEBALL OFFERS MORE POSSIBILITIES," SAYS EDDIE COLLINS

"IN BASEBALL THERE'S ALWAYS SOMETHING DOING," SAYS GAZELLA

"BASEBALL IS MORE SCIENTIFIC."

By BILLY EVANS

Which is the more scientific, football or baseball?

With football about ready to break into the sport pages, and battle baseball for space, it is an interesting and timely query.

During the past month I put the question to a score of former football stars who are now playing major league baseball.

Twelve of the players thought baseball was more scientific, called for quicker thinking, demanded more of the individual as an individual. Four leaned to football, while four thought it was about equal.

Practically every one of the players expressed the opinion that baseball offered a greater field for individual supremacy. All were agreed that football called for more concerted team play.

"When a pitcher is a marvel like Mathewson or Johnson, such a twister would stand out in baseball if he were on the worst team in the world," said one of the former collegians in explaining his opinion. "Place a football star of equal ability on a team of eleven and the gridiron celebrity would not stand out nearly so brilliantly."

Grid Stars Need Help

"Football calls for defense. If one player has marked ability but is on a weak team, that player has little or no chance to shine when pitted against a strong team. Such a situation would mean in a sense eleven players pitted against one, and take it from me the

Opening Game of Season at Alumni Field Tomorrow Afternoon

Football enthusiasts hereabouts will have an opportunity to see two deadly rivals in action at Alumni field tomorrow afternoon when the newly-organized Ponies of Centerville, leaders in athletic ability, meet the Cadets of the city.

The Ponies, who were organized last year, and who were defeated by the Cadets in a friendly game, are looking for a more serious contest. The Cadets, who were organized last year, are looking for a more serious contest.

The game will be played at Alumni field tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Ponies will be in blue and white, and the Cadets will be in red and white.

The game will be a hard-fought one, and it is expected that it will be a great success.

Sweetser and Marston in Finals

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(By the Associated Press.) Jess Sweetser of New York today defends his title of national amateur golf champion in the final 36 holes at Flossmoor, against Max Marston of Philadelphia, who yesterday reached the finals in the national championship for the first time, by defeating Francis Oimett of Boston. Thus far in the tournament, Sweetser is the favorite for the title, although Marston exhibited some of the rarest golf of the meet on Wednesday when he eliminated Bobby Jones of Atlanta, national open champion. Outside of one round in the qualification, Sweetser has shot persistently under 80.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 22.—Ballonists representing six countries, including the United States, are likely to get a thorough soaking and to have plenty of wind in tomorrow's race for the Gordon Bennett cup. The Italians have withdrawn from the contest because Mussolini refused to approve an appropriation for their expenses.

Polo Games Postponed

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 22. The double header scheduled today in the American open polo championship tournament at Meadowbrook field, was cancelled because of wet grounds. The schedule will be rearranged for the resumption of play next week.

BOXING

The difficulty of finding suitable opponents for Lowell's sensational featherweight, Billy Murphy, has caused a delay in announcing next week's Moody club card. The matchmaker had Mickey Brown of Philadelphia under consideration and virtually signed, but a chance to meet Pepper Martin, caused him to request a later date. Others have been approached, but to date none has been secured.

Murphy is back in from after a lay-off since last season. He did considerable exhibition work during the summer months, but an injury to one of his hands forced him to stop all activities. The hand is again O. K. and for the past few weeks he has been training daily. He looks forward to a busy season and his friends are anxiously awaiting his appearance within the squared circle.

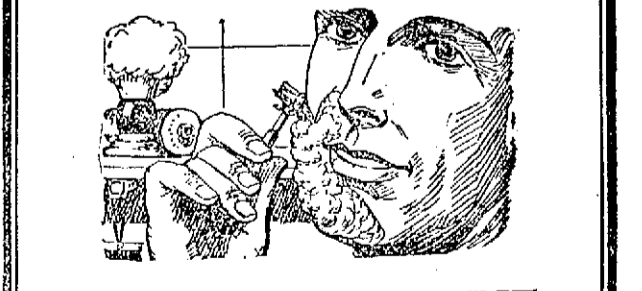

Young Martin Flaherty's friends were greatly disappointed over his defeat by Pansey. They figured that the long lay-off and the constant training would bring him back into the sensational form he displayed up until the time he was stopped by Johnny Avila. Martin tried hard enough and showed remarkable gameness, but a different story might have been written had he been more cautious and paid more attention to defensive maneuvers. It was a tough break to get on his first start of the season.

Johnny Duffy looks like a promising prospect. He is a fast and clever and appears to pack a pretty good wallop. In his bout with O'Neil he carried a fine attack to his opponent and when forced to stand right in there and traded wallops, O'Neil fought back well and forced Duffy to employ everything in his repertoire to nose out the decision.

KALAMAZOO SOUTH WINS

PIREVEZA, Albania, Sept. 22.—The international mission investigating the assassination of Gen. Tellini and his suite sends its report to the Inter-Allied council of ambassadors today. The Japanese, French and British delegates, it is said, conclude that the assassins acted from vengeance rather than from political motives.

SCENE FROM "THE THREE MUST-GET-THIERS" WITH MAX LINDER AT RIALTO THEATRE MON., TUES., WED.

EXCELLENT FEATURES AT THE RIALTO

The great dramatic photoplay production, "Neglected Wives," at the Rialto, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is a screen version of the play of the same name whose successful run on stages in the world extended over a period of several years is well remembered. Miss Anne Luther, the well known and popular screen favorite, is starred and is supported by a brilliant cast of notable players including Claire Whitney, Charles Gerard, E. J. Radcliffe, Harry Ivy Ward and many others. The story presents a dramatic interlarding of intrigue, love, romance and adventures portrayed with a mastery that holds the audience in absorbed interest.

Dorothy Pemberton is a womanly woman, who feels so kindly her husband's neglect. While her husband is so absorbed in his work that he cannot understand why, with every comfort and luxury in the world at the command of her whim, she is unhappy. In the barren desert of her life a sympathetic and not uninteresting friend enters and then it is so easy to drift along that she readily falls victim to the plot which will ultimately ruin her husband's political career. There is also the baroness, whose intrigue furnishes many a tense moment, and whose past proves a revelation in American society into which she so easily gained entrance. The big ballroom scenes, the gambling mansion, the raid and the kidnapping lend an impressive and grandeur to this production.

There is an exceptional movie combination of story, cast and leading man in "The Three Must-Get-Thiers." Max Linder, very famous screen comedy which is the other feature on the program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Max Linder, famous international comedy favorite, who has been absent from the screen for some time, returns to the certain delight of his hosts of admirers in the stellar role of his picture which is the most complete and perfect film version of the current Dumas romance, "The Three Musketeers." And in this five-reel feature.

EXCELLENT FEATURES AT KEITH'S NEXT WEEK

Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne will feature tomorrow's bill at the B. F. Keith theatre, and this is sufficient to pick the place. Excellent actors are they, and their vehicles is one to be much admired. Claude and Marlon, with their outlandish funny stuff, Lloyd and Goode, with their chatter, Great Howard and Adams and Lilyan will also be retained for the day. A new act will be Marguerite and Frances and a feature picture will also be shown.

The coming week's bill will hold a pair of headliners. Our old friends—and yet ever new—Al and Fanny Stedman, will pronounce the very latest version of "Pianocapers." Nuff said. A number, more able funsters, can be found than this pair. Always something new and always something good might well be their motto, for they can return season after season and still put forward pleasing new things.

Charles Buckridge and Billy Casey will share the top spot with the aforementioned, and with them will be Arthur De Salvo at the piano. Here is a real high class act, one of the kind that gets a foothold in Metropolitan theatres and which remains favorably remembered. Miss Buckridge is a young prima donna, who has been featured with the Ziegfeld Follies, the Midnight Frolic and other top-notch companies. Casey, her partner in their vaudeville debut, comes from the movies where he has been associated with some of the most prominent screen stars of the present time.

Fred Bernard and Sid Garry are a pair of witty chaps who hail from the south and who have brought southern synecopation with them. They have "Broadway" their ideas of singing and the result is a method wholly different from what any others have shown us.

No less could present more twists than "Papa's Secretary," which James Keels and Bella Bonomo will offer. The piece doesn't attempt to solve anything, it is just a collecting fare, revolving at top speed.

"Bits of Hits" will be the presentation of Tommy Russell and Ernie Marconi. It is a departure from the usual mélange of musical things, but it is none the less musical, and it is novel throughout.

A miscellaneous assortment of freak bicyclics together with the silliness to perform unusual stunts are characteristics of the act to be sent forward by Valentine and Bell. J. P. McGowan and Helen Holmes in "Stormy Seas" will furnish the feature picture of the big show.

NEW JEWEL THEATRE

Reiz Ingram's famous production of "The Prisoner of Zenda" will top a great program at this cozy picture house tomorrow. The counter attraction will also prove a big factor. "The Fountain of Youth" is called, and it is based on the opera "Faust" in which the lovely Markuette has many trying moments. This theatre is making a strong bid for a week-end audience, and is succeeding in the three last days of each week, when the theatre is open. Prior to this, it has been a failure.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

— LAST DAY —
SIX CYLINDER LOVE

COMING—NEXT WEEK
A Clash of Human Natures
"THE TIDAL WAVE"
With Fine Parts for All the Favorites

OUR SEASON SUBSCRIPTION LIST IS ENTERTAINMENT INSURANCE

VICTOR BROWN Leading Man in "The Tidal Wave"

"THE TIDAL WAVE" AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Today marks the close of that successful play, "Six Cylinder Love," which has been making all Lowell laugh this past week and next week an entirely different type of play will be played by the popular Al Luttringer Stock Players.

"The Tidal Wave" also known as "The Brachembar," will be the play presented and judged from the sale that has already started Lowell will welcome this drama with filled houses at every performance.

The very nature of the theme is different from the regular run of plays and deals with two brothers, both in love with the same girl. One resorts to trickery to get his brother away from home and to make him believe that he has scarred the family name and brought disgrace on their blind mother. How he is finally rescued from the dumping land of the entire world, the South Sea Isles is all part of one of the most interesting and entertaining plays to be presented in Lowell this season.

Every member of the cast will be fittingly played with an exceptionally fine role for Miss Edna Earl Andrews, who has already gained local popularity. Vic Brown and Lloyd Subline will be seen as the two brothers with Brown of course as the brother who believes himself disgraced. Miss Edna Earl Andrews will be seen to perfection as the sweet heart of the two boys who proves that her love is greatest among every earthly possession.

The season subscription lists are still open and those persons who have not already taken advantage of this means of getting the same seats weekly are urged to make their reservations either in person or by phone to the Opera House box office.

To Fix Blame For California Fires

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 22.—On the theory that a part of the destructive forest, brush and grass fires in California during the past week was the result of incendiaries, the state board of forestry has started an investigation in an effort to fix individual responsibility and to clear up the mystery which surrounds several of the fires. One arrest has been made and others are expected within the next few days. The state board of forestry will cooperate with the United States forest service in an investigation of the fire in the Berkeley hills early this week.

Decide What Constitutes Cruelty to Bean

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Sept. 22.—What constitutes cruelty to a bean? The Santa Barbara Humane Society has entered a fight to settle the question. Merchants here have offered "Mexican jumping beans"—larvae infested legumes—for sale and to instill cruelty into the insects which dwell within, have placed their displays in hot sunshine. The result is somewhat similar to the inside of a popcorn popper. Now the Humane Society holds that exposing the larvae to sunshine is cruelty in the worst form, and has started a campaign to prevent the exploitation of the beans. The state Humane Society has been asked to decide the controversy.

Report Arrest of One of Janina Slayers

ROME, Sept. 22.—It is reported from Argynkastron, Southern Albania that the police there have arrested an Epirote named Jarelli, who has confessed that he was one of a band of seven who ambushed and killed Gen. Tellini and the other members of the Italian boundary mission near Janina, which incident caused the recent Greco-Italian crisis. If the report is true it is believed here that the entire plot will be uncovered and all the guilty apprehended.

GIRL RESERVE CLUBS ARE ENTERTAINED

Miss Lucile Shultz, director of Girl Reserve clubs of the Y.M.C.A., entertained about 40 of the girls in Kilson hall last night, in the first meeting of the fall-winter season. Three clubs were represented at the meeting and social session which followed. The usual games were played with enthusiasm.

After the games a circle was formed and five girls who had represented the Tri-Hi, Triptoe and Highland clubs of the Girl Reserve clubs at the Camp Maquina convention related various incidents of the trip and the convention. Miss Gretta McPherson told interestingly of the trip from Lowell to Camp Maquina, and described the camp.

Miss Annette Pease reviewed the daily camp schedule. One of the interesting items of her talk was the description of the midnight hikes, one of the major sports, which afforded plenty of thrills to the participants. Miss Marion Fletcher then gave a resume of the bible classes which was also well received. Miss Dorothy Mudgett told of the recreation activities.

The educational program was read by Miss Myrtle Dyer. Following the meeting a social hour was held and refreshments were served. Attending the party were Mrs. George Utton and Miss Margaret Woodbury of the Tri-Hi club.

On October 1st, a luncheon will be served by the Tri-Hi club at the club home, which will be followed by a business session. The club extends an invitation to all girls who wish to enter one of the high school Girl Reserve clubs, to attend the luncheon and register their names.

LADIES' AUXILIARY OF THE Y. M. C. A.

The first meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. was held in Kilson hall yesterday afternoon with Mrs. George F. Sturtevant, president of the auxiliary presiding.

Thomas D. Williams, boys' secretary at the Y.M.C.A. was the speaker at the meeting and his talk centered on Austria and the work done at the international convention of the Y.M.C.A. workers held in that country early in the summer.

After the regular routine business had been transacted, songs were given by Miss Ann M. Baker, accompanied by Miss Ella Penn. The devotional services preceding the meeting were conducted by Mrs. John Osgood.

Refreshments at the close of the meeting were served by the board of directors under the direction of Mrs. Elsie Dunlap, chairman of the social committee. The directors of the auxiliary were Mrs. George F. Sturtevant, Mrs. Romie Wood, Mrs. Thomas Coombs, Mrs. Stephen W. Hands, Mrs. Valentine Wilmet, Mrs. H. E. Hayward, Mrs. J. M. Kendrick, Mrs. Lorenzo Aver, Mrs. Mary Loomis and Mrs. Mardock McClinnon.

HARD COAL PRICES JUMP AT MINES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Increases ranging from 30 to 60 cents a ton on domestic sizes of anthracite coal at the mines were shown in the new price lists of three large producing companies.

The M. A. Hanna company, which operates the Susquehanna collieries in the Wilkes-Barre district, announced an advance of 60 cents a ton on egg, stove and chestnut sizes, while the new price of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, will be $2.25 a ton, instead of $2.35, and that of the Delaware and Hudson company $2.40 an increase of 70 cents. Increases on net cost range from 30 to 50 cents a ton.

O. P. Waldron, general manager of the Hanna Company, was quoted as saying the increase in price at the mines had been figured on the lowest possible basis to meet the advance in wages of the mine workers. "I do not think," he added, "that many of the retailers will add the entire increase to retail prices."

COMING TO THE STRAND FOR FOUR DAYS

"A Chapter in Her Life," a lesson of happiness, comes to the Strand for four days, beginning with matinee on Sunday. Adapted from the novel "Jewel" by Clara Louise Burnham, it is something decidedly new in the art of the screen. Lois Weber has taken the enchanting story and transferred it page by page to the screen. Its characters fairly live, and its entertaining story sends the spectator home with a memory that will linger for a long time.

The story is that of a little child, granddaughter of an embittered millionaire, who introduced into a household split by family strife, by her innocence and optimism, works a miracle and brings happiness to replace hate. Its deep heart-interest is enlivened by artistic touches of humor. Throughout the genius of Lois Weber, who conceived and directed the picture, and the masterful acting of Claude Gillingwater as the bitter millionaire, stand out conspicuously.

Interesting indeed is the newest "and" in the play, Jane Mercer, the child who plays the leading role, has proven something new in juvenile stars. She cannot be called cute as are so many of the youthful beauties of today, but Mr. Weber stated "she is typical—just a child—anybody's child."

Considering her 11 years, her acting is marvelous. A big cue is seen in this all-star production. Among the well-known film players on the list are Jacqueline Gadsden, Frances Raymond, Robert Frazier, Eva Thatcher, Fred Thomas and others. The scenic beauties of the play are surely elaborate. The scenes in the millionaire's estate are set in one of California's most famous homes, and several vistas of rare beauty add to the attractiveness of the picture. The action throughout is smooth and tranquil. The picture was designed to teach a great truth and to accomplish this it had to be true to life. Hence, every care was taken to avoid over-acting or episodes which might suggest the theatrical. Unquestionably, "A Chapter in Her Life" is a most unusual picture story, and one that will make a lasting impression on all who see it. You will easily find something bright and happy in life if you take the story to heart. And a little child is the one who opens your eyes to this fact. Don't miss this picture treat.

Everyone in life is a picture of extraordinary worth and entertaining power, is to be the second feature for the first part of the week. It is a rocks, amidst the putting the dynamite out of commission and rendering the ship lightless all through the long night. The destroyers struck the rocks at 8:15 p. m., and it was not until 8 o'clock the following day that the crew of the Nicholas was taken off on rafts.

Excerpts from the latter which tell vividly of the experience follow.

"I have just been through one of the worst disasters the navy ever experienced and seven torpedo boats are a total loss. We were wrecked at Point Honda, sometimes known as the Devil's Jaw. We hit the rocks at 9:15 p. m., on Saturday night. I was in my hammock reading and the crash threw me out on the floor.

"The captain gave orders for no one to leave the ship, telling us that if any man did leave, he would be crushed to death by the waves beating against the rocks. All the lights were out on account of the vessel striking amidships near the engine rooms. We had to stay on the top side all night, until 7:15 o'clock the next morning.

"Destroyer No. 310 was held fast by a rock not very far from us and in the morning shot over a line to us. We secured a life-raft in it and were pulled to safety, eleven men at a time. I never swallowed so much water in my life as I did going over on that raft, but we were saved, that's the principal thing.

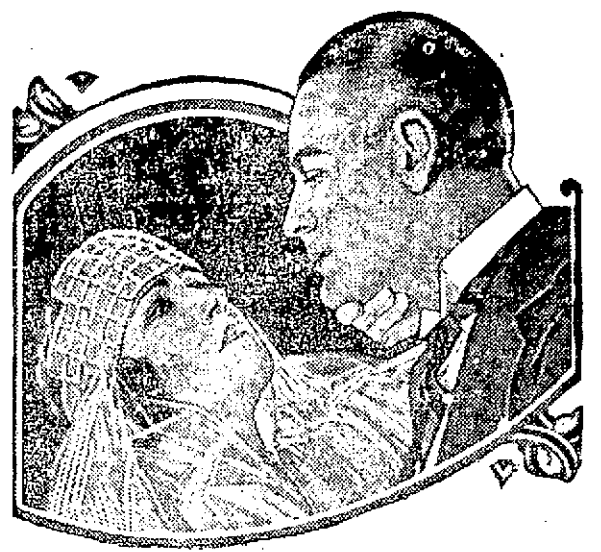

"There was a special train made up for us at Santa Barbara for San Diego. The Red Cross gave us sandwiches and coffee. We are getting a whole new outfit of clothes and a hammock, so all I lost was about $12 in cash."

Another interesting incident of the wreck as it concerns the Nicholas also contained in the clipping from the San Diego paper, tells of a fellow named Gonzalez, ward-room cook who went down into the ward room, waded in water up to his waist, got the Victoria securely lashed and started "her" going.

GLORIA SWANSON AND HUNTLEY GORDON IN "BLUEBEARD'S EIGHTH WIFE," SHOWING AT THE MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE STARTING SUNDAY

PROGRAM AT MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Novel of theme and treatment, splendidly produced and every role portrayed by a thorough screen artist, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," a Paramount Production, starring Gloria Swanson, is announced for a week's engagement at the Merrimack Square theatre beginning this afternoon.

This spectacular and lavish photoplay has been exhibited in a few of the larger cities of the country at advanced prices and has been generally acclaimed one of the best pictures, not only of the present year, but of all cinema history.

Gloria Swanson's latest Paramount picture, produced by Sam Wood, is a picture of the famous French actress, adaptation of Alfred Savoir's celebrated French farce, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." It is said to afford Miss Swanson one of the strangest roles of her screen career, and what her woman admirers will relish most, perhaps, provides her with ample opportunities for the display of amazing powers.

The story is that of a beautiful daughter of French nobility whose father is impoverished and wishes to marry her off to a man of wealth. His wish becomes reality when a rich American meets and falls in love with her. She also loves him.

Then it is learned that the American is a "youthful bluebeard" and has been married seven times (one wife is learned dead). The other six he divorced. Miss Swanson as the eighth wife is shocked by the cold-blooded business arrangement made of her marriage and determines she will not be like the other wives, divorced.

In connection with the showing of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" at the Merrimack Square theatre all next week, the management has made arrangements to present a lavish style show. The gowns worn in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" are the most elaborate, both in style and quantity, seen in any photoplay production in months.

Ten beautiful models will gracefully walk across the stage of the theatre twice daily at 1:40 and 8:10 p. m., exhibiting the latest ideas in fall wear for women. Doris Bramson Whitehouse of Boston will be in general supervision of the presentation and the firms co-operating with the theatre in the show are the following:

Maker & McCurdy, lingerie; Belmont Gown Shop, gowns; Rose Jordan Hartford hats; Zora Clark Craig, hats; Rose & Cause, furs; George E. Mongeau, shoes; French Specialty Shop, lamps.

ROYAL THEATRE

The management of this theatre has arranged a splendid program for Sunday. "Vanity Fair," the big Goldwyn special, and "The Littlest Scout," a good five-act production, will be shown in connection with the usual four acts of selected vaudeville. In "Vanity Fair," Goldwyn offers one of the finest screen plays of the season, featuring well-known players, and offering this well-known story with all the embellishments made possible by the camera. A great show, and easy prices to suit all.

WEEKLY ASSEMBLY

The regular weekly assembly of the students of the high school will be held next Monday morning at 8:20 o'clock. Freshmen will meet in Corburn hall and the other three classes in the Cyrus W. Irish auditorium.

RENEWAL BEGINS
Bentley Mfg. Co., employing 1500 people, will resume operations in all departments of plant at Adams, Monday, after being closed one week. Market conditions are said by plant officials to be somewhat improved. Business is that customers have adopted a "watchful waiting" policy, but that when they decide to start buying, which will undoubtedly be soon, the entire situation will be straightened out.

When a small group of men intimately acquainted with the textile industry in Fall River over a long period of years club together and buy 750 shares of a local mill at $25 apiece, it is a positive indication that they have confidence in the mill and in the future of the industry in this city. LOW WATER TIES UP TOWN'S INDUSTRIES

Fifteen hundred employees of the plant of the American Woolen Co. at Fallow, N. Y., returned to work Friday following a shutdown, only to be sent back home on orders of barge canal officials that the plant remain closed until water in the Oswego river reaches a higher level.
A dozen or more other manufacturing concerns, employing more than 4000 people are thrown out of work by the order which means a loss of more than $100,000 in wages and a heavy loss to the factories for overhead. Plants in Fallow, Oswego and Phoenix are affected.
This is the fourth or fifth time this summer that the woolen plant has been forced to close down due to low water.

WOOLEN INDUSTRY IN "SPLENDID SHAPE"

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—The Boston News Bureau quotes William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Co., today as follows:
"C. W. Barron, Boston News Bureau—Have had chance to assemble my thoughts. My judgment business improving daily. If five million suits on hand instead of one it would be nothing startling. Think retailers in splendid shape for buying. Think manufacturers of clothing have operated conservatively, with little stock on hand. Industry in splendid shape; collections never better. London wool market advanced; and wool firm. Have certain orders enough to run all our mills at full capacity for four months. Notwithstanding this, further cartage possible in individual mills not adapted for certain goods. We are on whole in excellent shape. Relatively few goods on hand unsold."
(Signed) "WILLIAM M. WOOD."

SPANISH WAR VETS WILL PARADE OCT. 12

The local members of the Sixth and Ninth Regiments, Massachusetts Volunteer Militia, who served during the Spanish war, have received orders from State Adjutant General Jesse F. Stevens in Boston for the observance of the 25th anniversary of the war, Oct. 12 of this year.
The principal feature of the celebration will be the parade in Boston, in which all veterans of '98 will take part. A banquet in the evening will be another feature of the day.
The Lowell veterans will not make any plans for their own part in the celebration but will follow the orders of the adjutant general. Last night a meeting of the veterans of Co. M was held in the armory and was largely attended. This company plans to have one of the largest turnouts of the old Ninth Regiment at the parade.
As far as possible, all units who took part in the war and the members of the United Spanish War Veterans camp of the state will report in Boston, Oct. 12, in Commonwealth avenue, at 1 o'clock at stations to be announced later. Transportation will be provided by the state quartermaster for all coming from places more than 10 miles from Boston but from within the state. Transportation through other states will not be paid.
Following the parade, patriotic exercises will be held in the First Corps Cadets' armory which will be addressed by Governor Channing H. Cox, the secretary of war, John W. Weeks, and several other well known speakers. Following this regimental and company reunions will be held.
The following moving picture shows the various units have been designated: 2nd Infantry, Commonwealth armory, Milton; 5th Infantry, Charlestown armory; 6th Infantry, Cambridge armory; 8th Infantry, South armory, Boston; 9th Infantry, 10th Infantry armory, Boston; C.A.C. City club, Boston; Naval Brigade, 1st Infantry, non-combat armory, Alton.
The route of the parade will be Arlington, Boylston, Tremont, Temple place, Washington, School, Beacon, Charles, Park square, Columbus avenue to the First Corps Cadets' armory where patriotic exercises will be held. To be addressed by J. H. Excellency, secretary of war, H. H. Cox and the Governor Channing H. Cox and the Secretary of war, Honorable John W. Weeks, and others.

LOWELL MAN LOUD IN HIS PRAISES

Dreco Relieves Him of Suffering After Other Medicines Fail

If you haven't health you are going through this world under a handicap that seriously affects your chances in this race to the top in the business world. Health is your most important asset guard it. Let Dreco help you like it has thousands of others.

Mr. Albert Pickett, 467 Moody St., Lowell, Mass., well known in and around Lowell, for years endured all the suffering that comes from bad stomach, liver and kidneys. He tried many different medicines, hoping that he would find relief. But none of them helped him.

"My stomach, liver and kidneys were in such a bad condition that I was sickly most of the time. My entire system was run down, completely wrecked by my troubles."

"All the medicines I took failed to help me, but their failures only makes Dreco's success the more remarkable. After taking two bottles of this wonderful remedy I felt fine. All my old troubles disappeared. I was a new man, with a stomach that worked fine, a healthy liver and kidneys that did not give me the least bit of bother."

"It is the only medicine I ever saw or heard of that really helps a person bothered with the troubles that kept me in a state of suffering so long."

Statements like this from persons right here in our home town should do much to convince people of the true merits of Dreco. This remedy does not contain mercury, potash or harmful minerals, nor anything that affects the heart, but is composed of the juices of many different herbs, roots and leaves which act on the vital organs.—ADV.

COULD HARDLY DO ANY WORK

Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound This Woman Feels So Well

Keeseville, N. Y.—"I cannot praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly for the good it has done me. I was so much troubled with female weakness I could hardly do any work. I saw your advertisement in the paper, and read it to my husband. He said, 'You had better try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' so I bought six bottles, and by taking it I am not troubled as I was. I am gaining strength and getting fleshy. My female troubles have vanished and I have never felt so well. The Liver Pills are the best I ever took. If you think my letter will encourage other sufferers you have my permission to use it as an advertisement."

—Mrs. SARAH BLAISE, Box 177, Keeseville, N. Y.

Doing the housework for the average American family is some task, and many women lose their health in so doing. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. BODY OF MAN DROWNED IS IDENTIFIED

Mrs. William Reagan of 116 Middle street this afternoon identified the body of James Connors, which has been in O'Donnell's morgue since it was found floating in the Merrimack last Sunday afternoon. Alabama Senator No Longer Strong Advocate of League of Nations

Trip Abroad, Where He Saw League at Work, Changed His Attitude

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Senator Oscar W. Underwood, Alabama's candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, is no longer a strong advocate of the League of Nations, he is credited by the Chicago Tribune today as saying in an interview.

To the senator was attributed the following statement:

"I am no longer a strong advocate of the League of Nations. My original views are well known. However, on my trip abroad I saw the league at work. Developments then and subsequently have changed my attitude. The failure of the league to function in the dispute between Italy and Greece had much to do with the change."

The senator also said he did not think the league would be an issue in the approaching presidential campaign.

"The present administration's lack of a definite foreign policy and its failure to achieve any notable accomplishments at home, will furnish the best democratic campaign material," the senator was quoted by the Tribune as declaring.

The republican party in the coming session of congress "will do little except mark time. All the pork barrel and study its various candidates for the presidential nomination," Senator Underwood declared in a statement here last night.

"I don't think the republicans are going to do anything except drift until the election next year," declared the Alabama senator, whose friends are supporting him for the democratic presidential nomination.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—George S. Connors, track coach and trainer at Phillips-Exeter academy for 22 years, today accepted an invitation to serve as first assistant to Coach Jones of the Yale football team.

VETERAN ACTOR DEAD

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Harry Graham, 73 years old, an actor associated with Tony Pastor and William H. Crane in the 70's and 80's, died yesterday in Staten Island hospital. He came from England in 1874, and played in the Crane production of "The Senator" in 1880. His later work was in D. W. Griffith's "The Birth of a Nation" and in "Spring Time" in 1916.

will not be an issue, "but the fact that the republican party slunk completely on European affairs, will be."

There was nothing to prevent American from keeping up to American diplomatic traditions. Even if membership in the league was objectionable to republicans, he added, instead of doing this, he declared, "the republicans have muddled around on the method of approach to the problem and fallen down completely on the main objective, which was to protect and conserve the interests of the United States in Europe."

He said he probably will resume efforts to repeal the present Canadian tariff bill or commit the democratic platform to its repeal in 1924.

The story of how a Lowell boy, John J. Thyne, cook on the U.S.S. Nicholas, one of the seven torpedo boats destroyed when dashed against the rocks of Point Honda, off Santa Barbara, Cal., returned to his galley after the crash and in spite of water which at times stood as high as his waist, made a fire and boiled coffee for his companions, has just reached this city.

It is the story of how some men just don't know when to quit.

An intimate pen picture of the disaster is contained in a letter from Thyne received today by his uncle, John J. Coyle of 35 Prescott street, enclosing also a clipping from the San Diego Evening Tribune which tells of the Lowell seaman's coffee-making while his ship was being pounded to pieces by the wind-swept waves of the Pacific.

The destroyer Nicholas struck the rocks of Point Honda, off Santa Barbara, Cal., Sept. 21, 1922.

Rev. Basil E. Newton Declares K. K. K. Held Initiation in Dining Room of White House—Another Klan Leader Says Five of Harding Cabinet Members of Klan—Report "Ridiculous," Say White House Officials

CHARLESTOWN, W. Va., Sept. 22.—That the K.K.K. held an initiation in the dining room of the White House, was the statement of the Rev. Basil E. Newton of Oklahoma, representing the Klan Imperial Council, in an address to a large audience of klansmen and others at Hurricane last night during a Klan celebration of the opening of the Charleston-Huntington road.

"We have 227 in the house of representatives and 27 in the United States senate," the speaker said, "and we held one initiation in the dining room of the White House. You know what that means."

"He forgot to mention five members of the Harding cabinet," Dr. V. T. Churchman of Charleston, head of the Klan organization in this section, whispered to a newspaperman beside him.

Klansmen from Charleston, Huntington and other West Virginia and Kentucky communities affected by the opening of the road made up the greater part of the audience.

"Ridiculous," Says White House

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The statement of the Rev. Basil E. Newton at Charleston, W. Va., that an initiation of klansmen had been held in the White House was declared today by White House officials to be "too ridiculous to discuss."

FINES AND SENTENCES IN AUTO AND LIQUOR LAW VIOLATIONS IN DISTRICT COURT

Adelard Chartier was sentenced to serve two months in the house of correction by Judge Wright, in district court this morning, for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, and for operating after his license had been revoked. He was ordered to pay a fine of $50. For drunkenness a fine of $5 was imposed. He appealed and was held in custody of $500.

Chartier, who was arrested on the Pawtucket boulevard yesterday afternoon, by Motorcycle Officer Charles A. Hamilton, pleaded guilty to all complaints. Deputy Downey introduced a certificate showing that Chartier had been fined $50 in the district court in Lawrence, last April, for operating while under the influence of liquor.

Peter Duszewski was found guilty on a charge of illegal keeping of liquor and as it was his second conviction on a similar complaint he was ordered committed for one month and also to pay a fine of $100. He appealed.

Thomas L. Grady was charged with illegal keeping and also with maintaining a liquor nuisance, but the court was not satisfied on the evidence offered in support of the latter complaint and this was dismissed.

Mike Had Marks and Real Money, Too

Mike Kuchavoulas likes to deal with big money.

Mike is an alien, and when arrested by Officer Cooney the other night on a charge of having firearms in his possession, he explained to the officer that it was necessary for him to have a revolver to protect his money.

"I have $2,000,000," he said, and then added as an afterthought: "But the money is in German marks."

But when Mike was fined $100 in district court today, he pulled out a roll of bills, peeled off one marked "$100," and turned it over.

Mary Riatano Seized and Put Into Machine Which Sped Away Toward Lawrence

Police Say Others Waiting With Girl for Trolley Made No Effort to Help Her

METHUEN, Sept. 22.—Mary Riatano, 20, a Lawrence mill worker, was kidnapped about 6.30 this morning by two men in a closed automobile, according to a report made to the police by the girl's father, Vito Riatano. He said that while his daughter was waiting for a car near Phippen's turnout on the Lowell-Lawrence road, the automobile stopped and the men got out. One of them threw a blanket over the girl's head, and she was put in the machine, and it was driven rapidly away toward Lawrence. Others who were waiting for the same car made no effort to prevent the girl being taken away, the police say.

Stevens Trust Again Heads List of Individuals With Total Tax Amounting to $33,926.20—Tremont & Suffolk, With Assessment of $163,112.18, Leads All Corporations—Massachusetts Mills Second in Line

The 1923 list of heavy taxpayers, compiled today shows the Stevens transactions recorded in which the total tax to be paid into the city coffers of $33,926.20. Of the corporations, the Tremont & Suffolk, as was the case last year, biases the way with a tax amount of $163,112.18.

A study of the tax list of this year, paying particular attention to totals of more than $100 among the individuals, shows an increasing number of outside property owners, especially in Lawrence, although this list does not contain as many Lawrence addresses as one might be led to expect from the many real estate transactions recorded in which the names of down-river operators appear.

The entire list varies very little from last year. The big taxpayers still retain their relative positions or very nearly so and only a comparatively few new names appear in the "select circle."

In addition to the Stevens Trust other individuals who pay royalty to the city for property owned and the amount assessed against each include: Arthur G. Pollard, $24,855.43; Paul B.

Marston was somewhat erratic, taking seven on one hole, but his brilliancy in spots almost held the champion even. Outside of one hole it required par or better to win, and while each had two birdies, Sweetser was perfect on more holes than the Philadelphian.

Beauty Exercises By Physical Culture Expert—Fashion Notes

Planning French Hats an Engineering Feat—They Make a Regular Survey and Every Cranial Bump and Depression Counts

BY MARIAN HALE
N.E.A. Service Writer

PARIS, Sept. 22.—Only two types of hat are given any consideration in Paris—the large, bouffant model, to be worn with the full, bouffant frocks, and the very small hat, either a cloche or a roll-brim.

In Paris you are fitted for hats, just as you are for gowns. You try on the models to find something that suits you and no one minds in the least how long this takes you. Then you enter upon a long consultation concerning colors and trimmings.

Next a third party arrives on the scene and charts your head with a tape-line, recording all her findings minutely, more carefully than a phrenologist would do it.

In a couple of days you arrive for a fitting, after your chapeau has taken on a certain shape bearing a resemblance to the original. On this occasion you make sure that your head has not increased or decreased, and that you have not changed your mind.

Question of Line
In a week your hat is ready for you, made to humor all the bumps and depressions of your particular cranium.

The modistes will tell you that the French woman does not like fancy hats, but wants all the attention focused on the line. With her most elaborate frocks she wants severe hats.

In the charming gray and purple salon of Mme. Blanchot I saw the hats photographed here, and gleaned much information concerning millinery styles for the winter.

Panne velvet is to be the smart material for hats, large and small. Nearly every hat is colored or has color in the trimming. The all-black model is hard to find.

Much of the trimming consists of feathers, tassels or fancy effects that fall low on the shoulder. Bows of ribbon or loops of velvet are seen, but they are applied quite flatly.

Ostrich feather fans are popular on large or small shapes. Picture hats of black velvet have old rose, green, or blue ostrich tips arranged on one side of the brim. Often the brim is cut, to allow the trimming to fall through.

Match the Gown

Leather, popular on frocks, is even more so on hats and is used to make the hat, as well as combined with velvet to make the trimming.

Felt shapes are popular for street hats and are practically untrimmed. A bunch of white ermine tails is a becoming brim for a black velvet shape.

Frequently hats match handbags, or belts or carry out an embroidered motif found on the frock. At all times they give the effect of being a part of the costume.

PEARL LIKES 'EM BARE

She Likes Her Limbs That Way and Others Are Copying Her

By N.E.A. Service
OMAHA, Neb., Sept. 22.—The actress who started Hollywood in the stockings fad, recently lost this city sitting up and taking decided notice.

Pearl Regay, playing at a local theatre, went about the streets sans stockings. Many stared to look, but few thought it a bad idea. The result is that folks now are doing it, too.

Comfort and appearance are her reasons for going without stockings. She had practiced this for several years—except for intervals when she feared censorship or was about to walk in the snow.

"I find I am cooler without stockings," she says. "Stockings are a nuisance."

Miss Regay never wears high shoes. "In other words," she concludes, "I intend to be comfortable. And I am."

Frenchwoman Never Wears Tailormade Gowns—Here's as Close as She Comes to It

BY MARIAN HALE
N.E.A. Service Writer

PARIS, Sept. 22.—No matter how small or how large her wardrobe, the Frenchwoman always has one plain suit of blue or black wool.

You can't call it a tailormade, for it isn't. The Parisienne never is tailormade, she always puts some little feminine touch to her costume that removes it from the uniform class, but this suit is as near as she ever gets to severity.

This season the favorite suit is the straight jacket, bloused by a narrow belt just below the hips, with a perfectly straight and very narrow skirt.

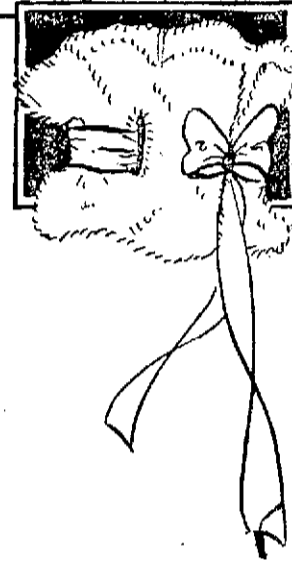

With this she wears the fascinating blouses, vestees and accessories for which she is so justly celebrated.

It's Very Simple

The fashionable blouse, as you will notice by these very Parisienne little sketches, is simplicity itself and has no intention of betraying the whereabouts of the waistline or violating the straight-line silhouette any more than the one-piece frock has.

And you can readily see that without the jacket, these blouses give the effect of a frock of two materials rather than just a blouse and skirt.

On one you will notice the smart little close collar of ribbon with the flowing ends, and the same trimming used on the cuffs. Another gives you a Parisian version of pockets, while the other uses its own material tucked to create the desired effect of smartness.

Plenty of Color

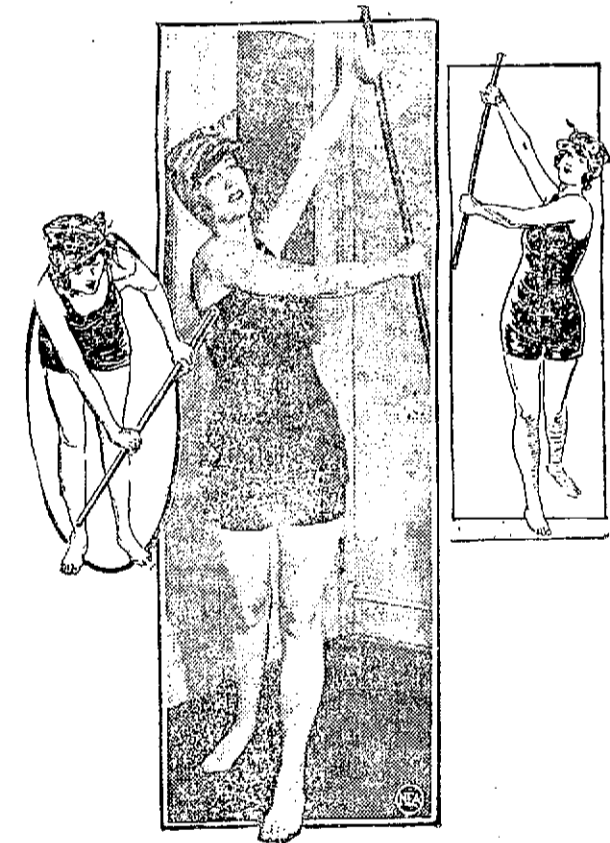

These costume blouses usually make no attempt to carry out the color of the suit. They come in bright colors or in white, sand, blue or gray. The all-over embroidered blouse is frequently seen, as are the modifications of the peasant blouse.

The alternative of the costume blouse is the beautiful lingerie blouse of white dimity or voile made entirely by hand, with frills or a fancy collar to be worn outside the jacket.

The blouse of white crepe de chine with hand hemstitching and the monogram either in white or black or in a pastel shade is also excellent style and may be worn outside or inside the skirt.

Tiny bouquets of French flowers or fancy belts are frequently worn with these suits and as the fall comes on, the fur neckpiece is added. This need not be the inevitable fox, but may be a cloak of mink, ermine, caracul or any short-haired fur, made after the attractive pattern of the one sketched.

Fashion Will Force You to Exercise For Shapely Arms and Shoulders

THE THREE POSITIONS OF THE SCYTHE EXERCISE

BY ANNE HOLLAN
The sleeveless costume has evidently come to stay for a while, so we may as well prepare for it. We can no longer conceal a too plump arm under fluttering draperies or non-committal long sleeves. They must be reduced or developed as the case may be—and beautified if we wish them to be attractive with the fashionable frocks.

It is difficult to reduce the arm perceptibly without reducing the weight considerably, but there are several of effective exercises that reduce the shoulders and keep little pads of fat from appearing beneath the arm.

One way is to stand erect with the arms outstretched at right angles with the body. Then raise the arms upward, pulling upon them as though you had a heavy weight on each arm.

Another one that is very reducing is to throw the arms straight out in front of you and describe circles with them, first to the right and then to the left.

Scythe Exercise

The best all-around exercise I know for shoulders, arms and waist muscles is the scythe exercise. You remember how the farmer cuts his tall grass with swathing strokes?

Of course, you haven't a scythe, but you can get a broomstick. I'm sure. Grasp it with each hand about a foot apart, dividing the space of the stick into thirds. With the feet well apart, start with the stick high on the left side, swoop down just clearing the floor with the broomstick and come up high on the right side.

You won't care to do this many times the first day if you do it with the force you should. But increase the number from time to time. Besides beautifying your shoulders and upper arms, you are squeezing your liver in a way that is beneficial for that organ and will keep it functioning as it should.

At Housework

And when you are using the broomstick in its other position—in the course of your housework—try to put rhythm and grace into your strokes and make a beauty exercise out of a necessary task.

Of course, swimming, tennis, golf and practically all outdoor sports develop the muscles of your arms. But remember that the arms should be developed or reduced with the idea of beauty and grace rather than of muscle.

For training the arms to be graceful, nothing is more effective than the arm technique taught in the study of the ballet.

LIKE A PAGODA

A new device is built on the general architectural scheme of a pagoda and a colored shawl shows from beneath it.

BRIGHT-HUED BELTS

Belts of woven raffia in bright red or green are worn with daytime frocks of blue or white.

FLORIDNESS

A natural flower at the waistline emphasizes the turquoise blue of a velvet frock trimmed with ermine.

WEARING A SCARF

In many cases, the scarf is a part of the costume and the ends become panels or even trains.

FASHIONABLE COLOR

Brown is to be very fashionable this winter, particularly in the warm, rust tones.

WOMEN HAVE NO TIME FOR BEAUTY IN RUSSIA

By N.E.A. Service
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Russia's most beautiful woman, the Baroness Mara Lillier de Steinheil, has just arrived in America to start all over and make her fortune as a singer.

"Perhaps I was beautiful in the old Petrograd days," she admitted with an imperious air. "Then the artists all wanted to paint me and men turned to look again as I passed, but in those days many Russian women were beautiful. Today none of them are.

"We have played and suffered and starved and lost our faith. Our faces will not lie."

In the baroness has lost any of the vivaciousity that made her the toast of the Russian capital in the pre-revolution days, she has retained enough to make most women envious of her.

How to Live

"Since the Bolshevik regime, we women have not thought much about beauty," she went on. "We've been more absorbed in the problem of getting enough food from day to day and saving our lives."

"Those who once wore jewels and furs are grateful for a few rags to protect themselves from the cold. Stockings are a luxury few afford. Soap is so expensive cleanliness is out of the question. Face powder is prohibitive in price and every woman is wearing her own complexion. Bobbed hair is the style because it requires less care."

"The slender figure is in vogue because it is the result of starvation and deprivation."

But one good has come out of all this chaos.

All Can Work

Every Russian woman has learned to work," the baroness says.

"Women who speak languages usually can find employment in the government offices. Those who can now earn their bread. Others must cook, wash, scrub."

The baroness, escaping from Russia, became a seamstress and dishwasher in a Constantinople restaurant. When the proprietor found she could speak seven languages, he put a sign in his window saying all these languages were spoken in his place.

"Frequently," she said, "I was called from my scrubbing to act as interpreter."

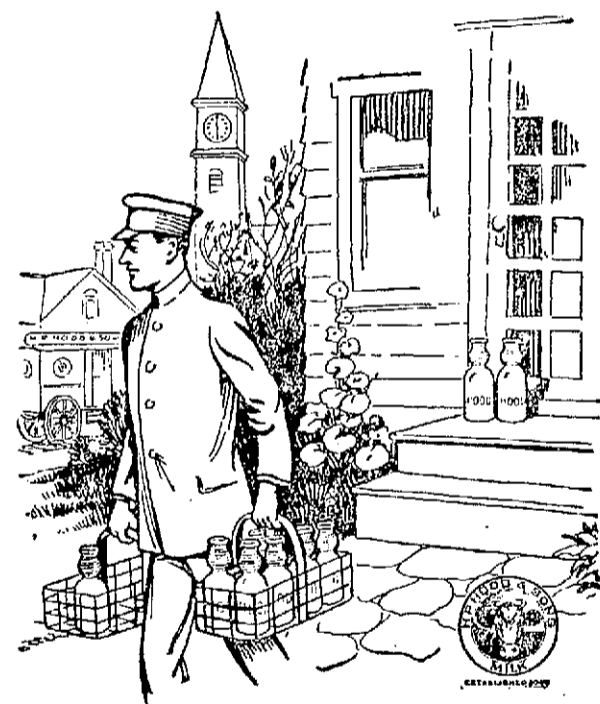

Though her jewels were confiscated, she has brought with her an interesting collection of peasant costumes and head-dresses and plans to wear the old native Russian dress at her recitals.

CLASSY FALL SPORTWEAR

In any climb or any hike, on horse or off—and this fall season is just the time for such outings—there are sport clothes to be considered. These two styles are worth attention. The riding breeches have all their style in the sleek, comely fit and flare. The reinforcement on the side can be of gray suede or a bright colored leather, according to the material of which the breeches are made. The other sports outfit is the last word in knicker suits. The wide band below the knee allows for freedom as well as style. The sleeveless slip-over gives the fashionable long line.

Say Greeks Innocent of Assassination

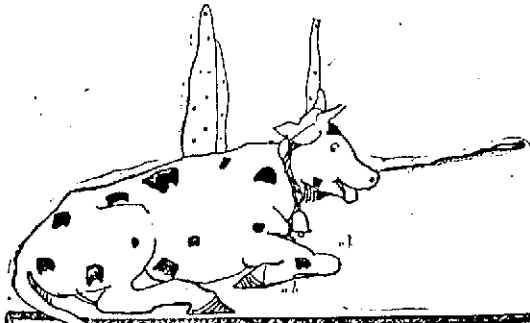

PREVEZA, Albania, Sept. 22.—The International mission investigating the assassination of Gen. Tellini and his suite sends its report to the Inter-Allied council of ambassadors today. It is understood that the investigators are convinced that the Greeks are innocent of the crime, but are guilty of negligence in seeking out those who committed the murders. The Japanese, French and British delegates, it is said, conclude that the assassins acted from vengeance rather than from political motives.

She will continue to appear pending the decision of the referee's court which is expected to take up the injunction notice about the middle of next week.

OUR MERCHANT MARINE

Mayor Curley in his address before the Lowell Ad club on Wednesday evening, made a strong appeal for the restoration of the merchant marine and the operation of the American vessels built at great expense during the war and now rotting at the docks.

He favored the subsidy if that is the only method by which this great fleet of merchant vessels can be operated in carrying our surplus products to foreign ports. In this, Mayor Curley voiced the only policy by which our merchant marine can be saved or established on a permanent basis. That was the policy favored by President Harding but it was defeated by congress on the ground that it would create a great shipping trust. It might be a good thing if we had such a trust to handle our commerce and take from the hands of competing nations the work of conducting our foreign shipping.

Owing to the Seaman's act, the output of La Follette's genius, American ships are unable to compete on an equal footing with those of other nations. Thus, our merchant marine is handicapped in several different ways. Various plans are evolved to save it, but thus far none that seems practical. The Lasker-Farley plan, the latest proposed for the operation of the merchant marine, has been declared illegal. The title to the ships cannot be legally transferred to corporations organized under state laws.

The question of having our merchant ships used for our own commerce instead of employing the ships of other nations that are our competitors in trade, is one of the most important issues before the people today. It has thus far been bungled, and as yet there is no plan proposed that seems to offer a solution without a substantial government bounty. Under private ownership these merchant vessels can be used to advantage, but not without a government subsidy while the seaman's act and the prohibition law are enforced.

SENATOR UNDERWOOD'S CANDIDACY

Senator Underwood of Alabama in a speech before the legislature of that state on July 31, made the statement that he would stand as an avowed candidate for the presidency in the national campaign next year, if he had the support of his own state. Since that time, he has had the most unmistakable proof of loyal support from his constituents, so that in accordance with his promise, he will be a candidate for the democratic nomination.

Senator Underwood stands today as the foremost democratic statesman the party can offer as a presidential candidate of eminent fitness—able, conservative and experienced, a statesman who would command the confidence of all parties and all sections of the country. He has had long and varied experience in dealing with domestic problems; and he could be relied upon to maintain a safe and sane foreign policy, that while keeping us out of the broils of the old world, would promote friendly relations with all nations, a condition essential to the success of our foreign commerce.

The one objection against Senator Underwood is, that he is from the south, but it is time to drop the sectional issues and select men for public office because of their fitness to give enlightened and progressive service to all the country, rather than to any particular section thereof. So far as qualification for the high office of president is concerned, it seems that in temperament, experience and capability as a statesman, possessing in high degree the gift of leadership, Senator Underwood stands head and shoulders above any other candidate, thus far mentioned as a democratic possibility.

This Alabamian stands for the economic policies that have brought this nation success in the past and which if applied today, would solve the agricultural depression that is resting heavily upon the farmers of the country. He could find a means of operating our merchant marine and enlarging the foreign markets for our surplus products. In fine, he would restore prosperity and put this country on a permanent business basis, with peace and progress at home and friendly relations with all the well disposed nations of the outer world.

COOLIDGE AND PINCHOT

President Coolidge has turned the tables on Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania in requesting that that state remove the export tax on anthracite coal. It will be remembered that Gov. Pinchot after settling the coal strike sent an appeal to President Coolidge to use the power of the federal government in reducing the price of coal to the consumer. Now President Coolidge makes a counter request and a very proper one in his efforts to secure a reduction in the price of coal. If this export tax imposed by the state of Pennsylvania were removed, the reduction could be passed on to the consumer same as was the increase granted the miners in settling the strike. It would seem that the relations between the president and Gov. Pinchot have recently been resolved into a series of movements resembling those made by contending parties in a checker game. Here is the president's request:

First—Repeat the Pennsylvania tax levied upon anthracite coal, recognizing that this irreplacable natural resource is for the common use of the entire nation, and that Pennsylvania should not handicap the less fortunate states by levying a tax of 1 1/2 percent on the sales price of anthracite coal at the mines.

Second—Let Pennsylvania establish a definite standard of quality and size of anthracite coal so that the consuming public may be assured that when anthracite is purchased they will receive the sizes paid for and coal that is burnable.

In that request the president very nicely calls the turn on Pinchot. This tax serves the same purpose as a tariff on coal exported from Pennsylvania to the other states, and our constitution forbids a tariff on interstate commerce.

COAL-CARRYING COSTS

It appears that one very important phase of the anthracite coal situation leading to exorbitant charges for fuel to consumers has been passed over very lightly by the United States Coal commission. Probably for the reason that the commission regards this particular subject as beyond its jurisdiction.

This item relates to excessive tolls charged by the anthracite carriers for hauling fuel to market. The commission has recommended that the Interstate Commerce commission make a re-examination of the subject without delay and revise its findings of 1915, which fixed high freight rates for transportation of anthracite. As a matter of fact, there never should have been any advance in anthracite tolls. No group of railroads was prospering as was the anthracite carriers under the previous conditions. All carriers of hard coal were paying huge diviwas held up as a result of the injunction proceedings for about a year and in addition, he had to pay lawyers to represent him during the proceedings in court. Yet he has to bear that loss although the courts decided that there was no reason why payment should be withheld.

EASY, AFTER ALL

A new steel arch bridge, connecting our country with Canada, will be built across the Niagara Gorge. There is not much excitement over this, for there already are 13 bridges nearby. But there's a real thrill in turning back the pages of history and recalling how the first was built, a matter of three-quarters of a century ago.

Engineers were baffled when it came to getting a line across the river, though nowadays, a flying machine or a modified cannon would turn the trick easily.

In desperation, they called on small boys to help by flying kites. Young Holman Walsh won, his kite landing on the other shore. Then the small kite string was used to pull a heavier line across the river, followed by a small rope, then a big rope, finally the necessary steel cables. Passengers traveled over in an iron basket attached to the cables. Trips were $1.25 apiece. It was a bridge, though hardly worthy of the name.

There is something both amusing and thrilling in the thought of young Holman Walsh and his boy friends coming to the rescue of the perplexed construction engineers with their simple kites in the late '40s.

A big problem, yet it had a simple solution. So with most problems, they are inherently simple but they baffle because people are inclined to seek a complicated solution.

Howe worked for years to invent the sewing machine. He was about ready to quit in despair when his wife impatiently shoved him aside, sat down at the machine, turned the wheel and said: "Put the thread eyelid down at the pointed or lower end of the needle."

All problems are simple. Man does the complicating.—N.E.A.

TOO MANY LAWS

Americans have at least 100,000 laws to obey. An expert makes this estimate. He is too conservative. The last congress passed 330 new laws; and the various state legislatures pass about 13,000 laws a year.

We are too interested in enacting new laws to give due attention to enforcing laws we already have. Easy to understand. We have a national mania for believing that all we have to do to remedy an evil is to get a legislative body to rule against it. "Pass a law again," it is a hypnotic formula by which we dodge issues, the solution of which is in ourselves rather than in statutes.

CITY PLANNING

It is quite likely that Mayor Donovan's appeal for a large attendance at the meeting of the Planning board next Tuesday evening at which Arthur A. Shurtleff of Cambridge will speak on city planning, will bring a generous response. Those who are not familiar with what is meant by city planning and city zoning should not fail to hear Mr. Shurtleff's address. The matter is one with which this community will have to deal in the near future and the coming meeting will afford an opportunity for getting valuable information in regard to the entire subject as applied to cities like Cambridge and Lowell.

STEEL PRICES

In the steel industry, average prices remain unchanged for eight consecutive weeks. Some business experts think this looks as if prices are stabilizing again for a while. If you want to do any comparing, you will find that steel prices average about three-fifths higher than in the 13 years before the war.

The city of Holyoke has learned of the beauty of our Memorial Auditorium and is preparing to erect a building somewhat similar. It looks as if Lowell had given to the country an excellent model, not only for a public hall, but as a real memorial for the soldiers who offered their lives in the country's service.

When a woman who advocates equal rights for her sex comes out boldly and says that "marriage as it exists at present is slavery," she is injuring all women by creating mistrust as to their ability to deal with public questions in a logical manner. Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont of New York is the woman who has made this new discovery.

Those who have known Fred Horne, for many years prominent in the coal business in this city, will deeply regret his untimely passing. As a business man he was highly respected throughout the entire community, and the city can ill afford to lose such an upright citizen.

The announcement that the board of public service is to secure an up-to-date machine for clearing the streets of snow, will inspire public confidence that the blockades of last winter will not be duplicated during the coming winter.

Already it seems the republican leaders in this state are beginning to organize the women voters of their party. The regional conference to be held in Haverhill early in October is one of the first steps in that direction.

It should not be necessary for the Board of Public Service to notify the mechanics under his jurisdiction that they are not allowed to work for private parties while supposed to be working for the city.

The last week-end, strange to say, brought an unusual number of very serious automobile accidents. It is to be hoped that the present week-end will not show similar results.

A Thought

No affliction nor temptation, no guilt nor power of sin, no wounded spirit nor terrified conscience, should induce us to despair of help and comfort from God.—T. Scott.

"O, Henry," said Mrs. Chatterton, "what do you think? Little Richard is beginning to talk." "Good luck to him," said her husband. "It's more than I've been able to do in this house. How did he ever get the chance?"

Not an Accident

He was being examined preparatory to taking out an insurance policy. "Ever had a serious accident?" "No, never." "Ever had an accident?" "No." "Never had a single accident in your life?" "Never, except last spring when a bull tossed me over a fence." "Don't you call that an accident?" "No! He did it on purpose."

Nature Helped Him

George Weaver of Parish, N. Y., had some help from nature in gathering eggs. He had left a load of oats standing near his barn when a whirlwind, resembling a small tornado, formed and struck the load and carried it into the barn, the doors being open. When the whirlwind spent its force Mr. Weaver went to the barn and pitched the oats into the loft.

The Very Latest

The trolley company at Akron, O., advertised that service was coming. It came a rider, while the company was held to a five-cent fare by its franchise. The company, therefore, asked patrons to drop an additional cent in the fare box as a favor. The appeal brought little response at first, but now there is a deposit of a daily average of about 2,000 pennies.

Soldier for Johnny

Johnny was not very bright at his lessons, but he was lively. His father asked him if he was pleasing his teacher. "O, yes," Teacher said that if I went on like I was doing he'd give me a soldier's medal. He said I was a box of tin soldiers." "I s'pose so," he only said one thing. I forgot his name. "Whose name?" asked the puzzled parent. "The soldier's name. Let me see. O, I remember! It was Corporal Punishment."

One More Week

A lawyer with a trivial criminal case got so many postponements that the case dropped out of sight. Another attorney came in and said: "I've got it up. Again the lawyer got a continuance of two and the matter rested. This went on for some 10 years. Finally the presiding judge ordered a general clean-up, which brought the lawyer and his client into court. "Now, this case is 10 years old," thundered the judge. "Why hasn't it been tried?" "I have been working on it steadily," may it please the court. "I suppose you could use one more continuance, hey?" suggested the judge with heavy sarcasm. "Well, your honor," responded the attorney, promptly, "I would like another week."

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Broad, and Market streets, Newark, New Jersey, statisticians tell us, is the busiest street corner in the world. And one who had watched the great maze of traffic there during rush hours does not hesitate to believe it. Two husky traffic sentinels are on duty in the center of the square and are assisted by sometimes as many as eight fellow cops, two on each curb, to prevent jay-walking and see that the big white mits of the men in the centre are instantly obeyed. No subways in Newark; all public service cars run on street tracks. Broad and Market was once a worse corner than it is now since the new public service terminal takes care of considerable of the trolley traffic that was formerly directed from the square.

It would be interesting to get statistics on Kearney square traffic here in Lowell and make a proportionate comparison with the figures available regarding the Jersey metropolis. It might prove surprising. Last night I watched a sergeant of police and three other officers, ably assisted by the car starter, and they had their hands full in taking care of the traffic at 5.30. One has to stop and note the volume of traffic to appreciate how heavy it really is. And the severity of accidents in the square speaks well for the efficiency of our traffic squad members who handle things there.

A few days ago I met Mr. Peter H. Donohoe and received from him a very fragrant tuberose and a bunch of his favorite lilies. Mr. Donohoe is a great lover of flowers and seldom appears on the street without a fresh pink in his buttonhole. He raises some rare flowers in his garden, and greenhouses at the corner of High and Sherman streets. His lawn and the hedges that mark the division of the grounds are among the most beautiful and best kept in the entire city.

Youngsters of the Sacred Heart parish were pleased no doubt with the announcement that their new pastor, Rev. Denis A. Sullivan, O.M.I., is to organize a second regiment of O.M.I. Cadets in their parish. When Fr. Sullivan was transferred from the Immaculate Conception church to his new and more important duties, older members of the famous semi-military organization, were greatly concerned with the future of the outfit. Fr. Sullivan is determined, however, that the O.M.I. Cadets will never die as long as he is in Lowell. The little soldier-band has been a credit to its organizer and chaplain and to the community in general. Long may it live!

Edward J. Conney, president of the Lowell Ad club, hit the nail on the head at the opening meeting of the season last Wednesday evening when he said it was a harder job than it looked for a person to stand on his or her feet and address an audience. To the inexperienced, public speaking is a hard proposition and requires plenty of nerve. Mr. Conney's remarks were prompted by a previous talk to the Ad club members by Miss Irene Matthews, secretary of the organization, who made her debut as a speaker at the Liberty hall gathering. Although her talk was of an informal nature, Miss Matthews showed that the female members of this thriving club may be relied upon to speak their piece when called, as well as the men.

A well known deputy sheriff of this city tells me the story of a man who sold a house for $3000 recently and when he paid off the mortgage and settled with his lawyers, he had left the munificent sum of $130. The only comment made by the man who sold the house, an optimistic sort of chap, was: "It might have been worse." Yes, he might have lost the remaining $130 while making change!

MEETING OF THE NAVY RESERVES

A well attended meeting of the navy reserves was held last night in the high school annex on John street with Horatio B. Leggat presiding. Several new members were initiated into the organization and a great deal of routine business was transacted. Fred Emerson was elected chairman of a committee to arrange for a smoker on October 2. It is planned to make this affair a big event and the committee, headed by Emerson, plan to have an entertainment consisting of several boxing bouts, a musical program, and other features. The smoker will be open to all ex-navy or marine corps men who served before, during or after the World War.

A temporary set of by-laws was drawn up and accepted. Following the completion of the business meeting, a social hour was enjoyed.

Berton Braley's Daily Poem THE HERO

They gave him twenty minutes but he finished up in ten; Oh, there's a prince of speakers and a servant unto men! His diction wasn't such a much, he hemmed and hawed a bit, But still he spoke a lot of sense, and after that—no quit. At first we sat plumb paralyzed, then cheered and cheered again; They gave him TWENTY minutes, and he finished up in TEN.

In all post-prandial history no finer deed is known, Among the dinner orators his figure stands alone! A gratitude unlimited from all of us he's won, We'll vote for him for president if he should care to run, He pulled a stunt that hitherto was quite beyond our ken; They gave him twenty minutes—and he finished up in ten.

A deed without a precedent—we can't express our thanks, But should he turn to piracy, or busting open banks, We'll treat these things as trivial and let him go his way; And, when he's dead, a monument we'll rear above his clay. And this shall be the epitaph we'll carve in marble then. "They gave him TWENTY minutes, but he finished up in TEN." (Copyright, 1923, The Lowell Sun)

Quarter Century Ago

On Sept. 19 the old Sun published a letter from Admiral Dewey addressed to Master Fred Willmott of the Green school in reply to a letter of congratulation sent the admiral after the battle of Manila. The letter was greatly prized by Master Willmott and was proudly exhibited to the other pupils of the school.

Odd Fellows Parade On Sept. 20 a delegation of Lowell Odd Fellows attended the parade of the order, on Boston street, which were represented by about 500 members. The Boston parade had 15,000 members in line. George H. Tryder was marshal of the Lowell division, and H. C. Fuller, chief-of-staff. Col. Plindar was aide to Grand Chief Marshal Merriam.

Gen. Ames Home Gen. Adolph Ames returned to his home in this city after service in the Spanish American war and enjoyed the trip home with his family on the yacht America after having recovered from an attack of fever.

Two Lowell Soldiers Die On Sept. 27 news was received in Lowell of the death of two Lowell soldiers. One, perhaps, the youngest soldier, was Corporal John J. Jones, formerly of Co. 31, 9th regiment, 104th Infantry, who died at the City hospital in Boston. The other was Chester Cummings of Co. 31, 9th regiment, who died at St. Francis' hospital, New York city. They were victims of malarial fever. Priv. Marshall was only a few months over 17 years of age and was quite popular among those who had known him.

25 Years Wed On Sept. 20, Rev. Fred E. Coburn, formerly of Lowell, but later of Windsor, Vt., was united in marriage to Miss Maude Jones, a teacher at the Moody school.

George Stratford of Brooklyn and Miss Grace Keniston of the local telephone exchange were united in marriage at the home of Mrs. Walter B. Owen, 41 Oak street, by Rev. Mr. Huntington.

Herbert W. Cox and Gertrude M. Langley were married Sept. 21 by Rev. George E. Kennett.

Mr. William Murphy and Sarah O'Brien were married Sept. 21 by Rev. Fr. McDonough of St. Peter's parish.

Benjamin W. Clements and Miss Alice E. Bent were married Sept. 21 by Rev. L. C. Manchester of St. John's church.

Soldiers Returned

On Sept. 23 thirteen Lowell soldiers arrived home from the war. They were: Company C—Edward A. Barnes, George P. Dunaway, Victor J. Hosmer, Arthur D. Tuttle, George T. Waugh, Fred Woodbury, Fred E. Hastings, Company G—Michael J. Murray, John Hill, Cornelius E. Sullivan, Burton L. Upham, Walter E. Worthen and Eugene E. Young.

Dewey's Reception

One of the rare burlesque attractions witnessed at Music hall on Dutton street before it was dignified by the title "Academy of Music" was "Dewey's" reception in MacFadden's alley." The notice in the old Sun reports that it was very funny and proved a complete cure for the hypochondriacs who attended it. Judging from the title of the piece, one might expect that it carried a sufficient number of laughs to justify the title.

Anniversaries Observed

On Sept. 20 Mr. and Mrs. Otto Hahn of 25 Marginal street, observed the 25th anniversary of their wedding while a charming daughter, Miss Linea Hahn, observed her 18th birthday.

LACK OF SLEEP RUINING AMERICAN CHILDREN, SAYS A CHILD HEALTH ASSOCIATION

Judge Beck Donned British Wig and Gown Pleading Before British Privy Council—Coolidge Not So Silent as Supposed—Looking Ahead to 1924 Campaign and Possible Issues

(Special to The Sun)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22.—"Curfew shall not ring tonight," is not a popular slogan with the American Child Health Association, which states forcefully that "the American child is being starved for sleep."
The good old New England custom of ringing a curfew bell at night, calling on all children to be in their homes, is upheld by that organization. Dr. Holt, head of the New York Babies Hospital endorses the movement. "Put the children to bed early," adding that on the future health and nervous strength of the children of today, must rest the welfare and prosperity of the nation tomorrow.
"Plenty of food; plenty of sleep, with long unbroken hours of slumber," for children is the foundation on which the future of the United States rests, say Dr. Holt.
In fact, much is now being said and written by children welfare organizations about the lack of sleep to which children, especially in cities, are subjected, where they attend movies, run wild on the sidewalks and little heed is paid to the time they go to bed.
These organizations blame on the lack of proper amount of sleep, the underweight, nervousness and fatigue found to exist among great numbers of school children.

San Francisco is taking the lead in making neighborhood efforts to establish a routine for children of school age.

They are emphasizing the need of early to bed, as the slogan of the hour. In the lower grades of public schools, they taught the children games and songs that led their thoughts to what to eat, what to play, and the hour they should be in bed; Group interest among the grammar school scholars was increased by weighing and measuring them, those which gained the most in a stated time, were prize pupils, and formed the head of the health brigade.

These pupils in turn accepted new responsibilities in drawing delinquents into line, until the health of the entire school had been moved up several pegs.
"And we found increased hours of sleep, to be the greatest factor," says one of the California teachers, Dr. Porter, of the University of California, in commenting on the child welfare-more-sleep done in that state, writes: "Without long hours of unbroken slumber, it is impossible for a child to be healthy during its younger years, just as it is impossible for it to grow up with the kind of nervous system that ensures full efficiency in later life. Put the children to bed early and you will have efficient citizens when they grow up."
The child welfare departments of the government are making headway in the "more sleep for children" movement, and it is not unlikely more curfew bells will soon be heard clanging in town and city.

Judge Beck's Experience

Judge Beck, solicitor general of the United States, has just returned from England where he appeared before the privy council, to protect against certain decisions that affected American interests.
The privy council is the highest tribunal in the British empire, and in order to appear before it, Mr. Beck was obliged to don the traditional British gown and wig, of the English court. Mr. Beck said he didn't so much mind the flowing robe, but that he was in terror lest the wig should slip over one ear and give him an undesired rakish air, and that moreover the weight of the wig made him feel as though he was addressing the court with his hat on and ought to apologize.

Coolidge the Silent

Some one commenting on President Coolidge as the silent man, remarked that much of that impression was due to the fact that he never interrupts a person who is talking, or interjects any of the "Yes, I see" or "I understand" accompanied by a nod of the head, or any of those little acknowledgments that serve as stimulants to conversation. Mr. Coolidge sits silent, listening intently, and is what salesmen call "a discouraging listener." He is perfectly courteous, but leaves it to the person who opened the interview to bear the brunt of it. Then he answers, briefly and to the point, then stands silent, waiting politely for the visitor to leave.

Plans for 1924 Conventions

With the primaries only a year away and the presidential conventions considerably nearer, Washington is full of speculation as to candidates, policies and who's who in the political field.
Both the major parties are planning to get as big a proportion of the woman vote as can be drawn into line. They are putting women on national committees and organizing women's clubs all over the country. Special attention is to be devoted to securing women campaign speakers in both parties and even at this date women of speaking and campaign experience are "being booked" for the 1924 campaign. The crop of prospective candidates for high federal offices is large, but thus far few definite announcements have been made.
Low England is apparently waiting to see how far the Coolidge boom will carry the rest of the ticket, before loosening hold on offices already securely possessed. Possible candidates are just now more given to "taking soundings" than making formal announcement of their intentions.

EX-U-BOAT OFFICER NOW LIQUOR SMUGGLER

HALIFAX, N. S., Sept. 22.—Capt. Eugene Friedrichs, who said he was a former German U-boat commander, arrived yesterday with his run-running 150-ton schooner, the Emmie Friedrichs, and described how he had capitalized his experiences as a war raider in guarding against pirates. Frau Friedrichs for whom his vessel is named, accompanied him on his profitable venture, to become the "first lady of rum row."

Capt. Friedrichs brought 2500 cases of whiskey from the Fatherland for American consumption. While engaged in the coastal trade after the war, he stated he was approached by a group of Chicago men who had exported large quantities of American liquors when prohibition was imminent. They chartered his schooner to carry some of it back to the Massachusetts coast.

Capt. Friedrichs said he sailed from Hamburg in May, was forced far to the south and covered 6000 miles to reach his destination. He told of the recent raiding of the J. Scott Hankens by rum pirates and the shooting of her skipper as he lay near by shortly after arriving off the Massachusetts coast.

He said he did not think his U-boat training would allow him to get caught by pirates. Such misfortunes he ascribed to the carelessness of the skippers. "On his ship not more than one stranger was allowed in the cabin at once, and every visitor on the ship was watched by an armed member of the crew whose duty it was "to prevent the visitor from shooting."

Of the seven vessels left on "rum row" when he left, all but three were Nova Scotians, Capt. Friedrichs said.

Your Health
by Dr. C. C. Robinson
KEEP FIT
When we stop to realize that there are approximately 80,000 deaths every year in our country from preventable causes, a serious attempt should be made to cut down this figure.
Without health to pursue your daily profession or occupation, you are poor. With health, think of how much better equipped you are for life's struggle.

The first consideration is physical fitness. Don't forget it for an instant. It is a fact that disease and unsanitary conditions are the leading factors in causing poverty.
Cost of Ignorance
Ignorance and superstition go along life's pathway hand in hand. Their companions are poorly nourished bodies and moral depravity. There are many thousands of people in this land today mourning the loss of some loved one whose death was due to ignorance. The three working forces for the betterment of health conditions in individuals and the public at large, are the scientist, physician and the public. They must fully co-operate to secure what we all desire—a high moral standard and healthy bodies free from disease.
This is not to be secured in parts of our country alone, but as a whole. The high as well as the low should be taught the need of all available instruction on disease and its prevention.

Think Health
Do you think these conditions can prevail in your own household and your own community? Be an optimist and say yes. With the thoughts of all people in a community turning to a common cause and with one accord conversing on the thought of health in fact a positive program of health, it can be done.
Bare the demand as far as health examinations, at given periods, if you can. The result will justify any time or expenditure. This will eventually cause the community to turn from the dread of disease to the promise of health.
Every day will be one of right living. This will mean efficiency and in the fullest sense happiness.

STIRRING GERMAN NATIONALISM

The dedication of monuments to dead German war heroes, and the observance of patriotic holidays, have been made the occasion for the stirring of German nationalistic feeling. General von Ludendorff has been the leader on many such occasions. Photo shows him (right) with Prince Henry, brother of the former kaiser, at the dedication of a monument to fallen aviators in the Rhine mountains.

BLACKMAIL PLOT IN BOSTON DISCLOSED

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Disclosure of an alleged series of attempted extortions of sums ranging up to $200,000 by a gang of which Mrs. Nathaniel Franklin Emmens, Boston society leader and cousin of Bishop William Lawrence, claims to have been the victim, were made here yesterday. Mrs. Emmens appeared in municipal court to press charges of an alleged $10,000 blackmail attempt against Arthur Le Barron of New York, whom she said she had defrocked in the course of war welfare work.

According to the charges brought, Le Barron falsely represented himself as the holder of a letter, alleged to have been written by her to a veteran, and demanded $10,000 for its surrender. Yesterday, for the first time, it became known that on September 14, a warrant was obtained and was served on Le Barron by a special officer. The specific charge is attempted larceny.

Mrs. Emmens told of a meeting by appointment with Le Barron at a Boston hotel at which he passed over to her a package supposed to contain letters. Special Officer Frank McNabb, who was present, then placed Le Barron under arrest. The package, about the size of a half-dozen envelopes, was done up in wrapping paper which, when opened, was found to contain blank paper cut to the size of ordinary envelopes.

The attempt, Mrs. Emmens told the Boston police, was one of a series of attempted extortions of amounts as high as $200,000 by a gang of which she accuses Le Barron of being a member. The court continued the case and ordered Le Barron held in $5000 bond.

Mrs. Emmens said she first met Le Barron when she was engaged in war welfare work. For the past three years she has been known as the "Angel of the 26th." Two years ago she established a camp at her estate in Hingham where she brought totally disabled soldiers from hospitals for a change of environment and recreation.

SCENE FROM "THE THREE MUST-GET-THERES" WITH MAX LINDER AT RIALTO THEATRE MON., TUES., WED.

EXCELLENT FEATURES AT THE RIALTO

The great dramatic photoplay production, "Neglected Wives," at the Rialto, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, is a seven-act story of the play of the same name whose successful run on some of the largest English speaking stages in the world extended over a period of several years. It will remember Miss Anne Lister, the well known and popular screen favorite, is starred and is supported by a brilliant cast of notable players including Charles Clary, Charles Howard, E. J. Radcliffe, Baby Ivy Ward and many others. The story presents a dramatic interplay of intrigue, love, romance and adventures portrayed with a mastery that holds the audience in absorbed interest.

Dorothy Pemberton is a womanly woman, who feels so keenly her husband's neglect. While her husband is so absorbed in his work that he cannot understand why, with every comfort and luxury in the world at the command of her whim, she is unhappy. In the barren desert of her life, "sympathetic" and "not uninteresting" friends enter, and then it is so easy to drift along that she readily falls victim to the net which will ultimately ruin her husband's political career. There is also the heroine, whose intricate fancies many a tense moment, and whose quest, a revelation in American society into which she so easily gained entrance. The big ballroom scenes, the gambling mansion, the raid and the kidnapping lead an impressive and grandiose picture, this big production.

There is an exceptional movie combination of story, cast and leading man in "The Three Must-Get-Theres." Max Linder's very funny, screen comedy which is the other feature on the program for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Max Linder, famous international comedy favorite, who has been absent from the screen for some time, returns to the certain delight of his house of admirers in the stellar role of the actor which will ultimately ruin his political career. The "Three Must-Get-Theres" is a masterpiece of the great French cinema. "The Three Must-Get-Theres" is a masterpiece of the great French cinema.

EXCELLENT FEATURES AT KEITH'S NEXT WEEK

Will Cressy and Blanche Dayne will feature tomorrow's bill at the B. F. Keith theatre, and this is sufficient to pack the place. Excellent actors are they, and their vehicle is one to be much admired. Claude and Marion, with their outlandish funny stuff; Lloyd and Goode, with their chatter; Grant Howard and Adams and Lilyan will also be retained for the day. A new act will be Marguerite and Francis, and a feature picture will also be shown.

The coming week's bill will hold a pair of headliners, our old friends, and yet ever new—Al and Fanny Stedman, will present the very latest version of "Pianocapers." Not only no fault, more skill, funnier, can be found than this pair. Always something new and always something good will be their motto, for they can perform season after season, and still put forward something new things.

Charles Buckridge and Billy Casey will share the top spot with the aforementioned, and with them will be Arthur De Salvo at the piano. Here is a pair of high class act, one of the kind that gets a foothold in Metropolitan theatres and which retains favor. Miss Buckridge is a young prima donna, who has been featured with the Ziegfeld Follies, the Midnight Frolic and other top-notch companies. Casey, her partner in their vaudeville debut, comes from the movies where he has been associated with some of the most prominent screen stars of the present time.

Frank Bernard and Sid Garry are a pair of nutty chaps who hail from the south and who have brought southern syncope with them. They have "broadwaysed" their idea of dancing, and the result is a method wholly different from what any others have shown us.

No ideas could present more twists than "Papa's Secretary," which James Kelso and Bella DeMonde will offer. The piece doesn't attempt to solve anything. It is just a rollicking farce, revolving on top.

"Bits of Hits" will be the presentation of Tommy Russell and Brute Marconi. It is a departure from the usual melange of musical things, but it is none the less musical, and it is novel throughout.

A miscellaneous assortment of frank bicycles together with the willingness to perform unusual stunts are characteristics of the act to be sent forward by Valentine and Bell.

J. P. McGowan and Helen Holmes in "Stormy Seas" will furnish the feature picture of the big show.

JEWISH SHOW AT OPERA HOUSE SUNDAY

MARY GARDEN MAKES OPERATIC HISTORY

Mary Garden, whose career is inseparably associated with the great rise in popularity of French opera in America, and who will be heard in the Memorial Auditorium, Oct. 7, assisted by Julia Child, noted violinist in England, and Joseph in Aberdeen, Scotland, but has been an American since six years of age. Her first attention to music was through the medium of the violin, but when her voice opened became apparent the gave up the violin for the voice. After vocal preparation with American teachers she went to Paris and studied with Trubert, Chevalier and Piquet, and after she appeared for one hundred performances. After other appearances in Paris, she appeared in London and was then engaged for the American tour in New York, where she made her debut in "Thais." The manager in which she and her colleagues in the French and Chicago companies have made great history in America since then is thoroughly familiar to all.

VICTOR BROWN
Leading Man in "The Tidal Wave"

"THE TIDAL WAVE" AT THE OPERA HOUSE

Today marks the close of that successful play "Six Cylinder Love" which has been making all Lowell laugh this past week and next week an entirely different type of play will be played by the popular Al Luttinger Stock Players.

"The Tidal Wave," also known as "The Beachcomber," will be the play presented and judged from the sale that has already started Lowell will welcome this drama with filled houses at every performance.

The very nature of the theme is different from the regular run of plays and deals with two brothers, both in love with the same fair lady. One resorts to trickery to get his brother away from home and to make him believe that he has scarred the family name and brought disgrace on their blind mother. How he is finally rescued from the dumping land of the entire world, the South Sea Isles is all part of one of the most interesting and entertaining plays to be presented in Lowell this season.

Every member of the cast will be fully played with an exceptionally fine cast for Miss Edna Earl Andrews, who has already gained local popularity. Mr. Vic Brown and Lloyd Sabina will be seen as the two brothers with Brown of course as the brother who believes himself disgraced. Miss Hazel Cornish will be seen to perfection as the sweetheart of the two boys who proves that her love is greatest among every earthly possession.

The season subscription lists are still open and those persons who have not already taken advantage of this means of getting the same seats weekly are urged to make their reservations either with the same fair lady. One resorts to trickery to get his brother away from home and to make him believe that he has scarred the family name and brought disgrace on their blind mother. How he is finally rescued from the dumping land of the entire world, the South Sea Isles is all part of one of the most interesting and entertaining plays to be presented in Lowell this season.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

To Fix Blame For California Fires

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 22.—On the theory that a part of the destructive forest, brush and grass fires in California during the past week was the result of incendiaryism, the state board of forestry has started an investigation in an effort to fix individual responsibility and to clear up the mystery which surrounds several of the fires. One arrest has been made and others are expected within the next few days. The state board of forestry will cooperate with the United States forest service in an investigation of the fire in the Berkeley hills early this week.

Decide What Constitutes Cruelty to Bean

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Sept. 22.—What constitutes cruelty to a bean? The Santa Barbara Humane Society has entered a fight to settle the question. Merchants here have offered "Mexican jumping beans"—larvae infested legumes—for sale and to instill energy into the insects which dwell within, have placed their displays in hot sunshine. The result is somewhat similar to the inside of a popcorn popper. Now the Humane Society holds that exposing the larvae to sunshine is cruelty in the worst form, and has started a campaign to prevent the exploitation of the beans. The state Humane Society has been asked to decide the controversy.

Report Arrest of One of Janina Slayers

ROME, Sept. 22.—It is reported from Argyrokastron, Southern Albania that the police there have arrested an Epirote named Jarelli, who has confessed that he was one of a band of seven who ambushed and killed Gen. Tellini and the other members of the Italian boundary mission near Janina, which incident caused the recent Greco-Italian crisis. If the report is true it is believed here that the entire plot will be uncovered and all the guilty apprehended.

GIRL RESERVE CLUBS ARE ENTERTAINED

Miss Lucille Shultz, director of Girl Reserve clubs of the Y.W.C.A., entertained about 30 of the girls in Kitson hall last night, in the first meeting of the fall-winter season. The clubs were represented at the meeting and social session which followed. The annual games were played with enthusiasm.

After the games a circle was formed and five girls who had represented the Tri-Hi, Tiptoe and Highland clubs of the Girl Reserve clubs at the Camp Maquina convention related various incidents of the trip and the convention. Miss Grotta McPherson told interestingly of the trip from Lowell to Camp Maquina, and described the camp.

Miss Annette Pease reviewed the fully camp schedule. One of the interesting items of her talk was the description of the midnight hikes, one of the major sports, which afforded plenty of thrills to the participants. Miss Marion Fletcher then gave a resume of the bible classes which was also well received. Miss Dorothy Mincault told of the recreation activities.

The educational program was read by Miss Myrtle Dyer. Following the reading a social hour was held and refreshments were served. Attending the party were Mrs. George Upton and Miss Marquerite Woodbury of the Tri-Hi club.

On October 1st, a luncheon will be served by the Tri-Hi club at the club rooms, which will be followed by a business session. The club extends an invitation to all girls who wish to enter one of the high school Girl Reserve clubs, to attend the luncheon and register their names.

LADIES' AUXILIARY OF THE Y. M. C. A.

The first meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. was held in Kitson hall yesterday afternoon with Mrs. George F. Sturtevant, president of the auxiliary presiding.

Thomas H. Williams, boys' secretary at the Y.M.C.A., was the speaker at the meeting and his talk centered on Austria and the work done at the international convention of the Y.M.C.A. workers held in that country early in the summer.

After the regular routine business had been transacted, solos were given by Miss Ann M. Baker, accompanied by Miss Ella Penn. The devotional services preceding the meeting were conducted by Mrs. John O'Connell.

Refreshments at the close of the meeting were served by the board of directors under the direction of Mrs. Kirke Dunlap, chairman of the social committee. The directors of the auxiliary are: Mrs. George F. Sturtevant, Mrs. Romie Wood, Mrs. Thomas O'Connell, Mrs. Stephen W. Hands, Mrs. Valentine Wilmet, Mrs. H. E. Hayward, Mrs. J. M. Kendrick, Mrs. Lorenzo Aver, Mrs. Mary Loomis and Mrs. Murdoch McKinnon.

HARD COAL PRICES JUMP AT MINES

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Increases ranging from 10 to 20 cents a ton in domestic sizes of anthracite coal at the mines were shown in the new price lists of three large producing companies.

The M. A. Hannan company, which operates the Susquehanna collieries in the Wilkes-Barre district, announced an advance of 10 cents a ton on egg, stove and chestnut sizes, while the new price of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company, will be $9.25 a ton, instead of $8.35, and that of the Delaware and Hudson company $9.00 an increase of 10 cents. Increases on pea coal range from 20 to 50 cents a ton.

O. P. Waldron, general manager of the Hannan Company, was quoted as saying the increase in prices at the mines had been figured on the lowest possible basis to meet the advance in wages of the mine workers. "I do not think," he added, "that many of the retailers will add the entire increase to retail prices."

COMING TO THE STRAND FOR FOUR DAYS

"A Chapter in Her Life," a lesson of happiness, comes to the Strand for four days, beginning with matinee on Sunday. Adapted from the novel "Jewel" by Claire Louise Burnham, it is something decidedly new in the art of the screen. Lois Weber has taken the enchanting story and transferred it page by page to the screen. Its characters fairly live, and its entertaining story sends the spectator home with a memory that will linger for a long time.

The story is that of a little child, granddaughter of an embittered millionaire, who introduced into a household split by family strife, by her innocence and optimism, works a miracle and brings happiness to replace hate. Its deep heart-interest is achieved by artistic touches of humor. Throughout the genius of Lois Weber, who secularized and directed the picture, and the masterful acting of Claude Gillingwater, who introduced into a household split by family strife, by her innocence and optimism, works a miracle and brings happiness to replace hate.

The picture is a masterpiece of the screen. The scenes in the millionaire's estate are set in one of California's most famous homes, and several vistas of rare beauty add to the attractiveness of the picture. The action throughout is smooth and tranquil. The picture was designed to teach a great truth and to accomplish this it had to be true to life. Hence, every scene was taken to avoid over-acting or episodes which might suggest the theatrical. Unquestionably "A Chapter in Her Life" is the most unusual picture story, and one that will make a lasting impression on all who see it. You will easily and something bright and happy in life if you take the story to heart. And a little child is the one who opens your eyes to this fact. Don't miss this picture treat.

"Vengeance of the Deep," a picture of extraordinary worth and containing power, is to be the second feature for the first part of the week. It is a rocks, amiships, putting the dynamites out of commission and rendering the ship helpless all through the long night. The destroyers struck the rocks at 9:15 p. m., and it was not until 8 o'clock the following day that the crew of the Nicholas was taken off on rafts. Excerpts from the latter which tell vividly of the experience follow.

Lowell Boy on Wrecked Destroyer

"I have just been through one of the worst disasters the navy ever experienced and seven torpedo boats are a total loss. We were wrecked at Point Honda, sometimes known as the Devil's Jaw. We hit the rocks at 9:15 p. m., on Saturday night. I was in my hammock reading and the crash threw me out on the floor.

"The captain gave orders for no one to leave the ship, telling us that if any man did leave he would be crushed to death by the waves heaving against the rocks. All the lights were out on account of the vessel striking amidships near the engine rooms. We had to stay on the top side all night until 7:45 o'clock the next morning.

COMING TO THE STRAND FOR FOUR DAYS

"A Chapter in Her Life," a lesson of happiness, comes to the Strand for four days, beginning with matinee on Sunday. Adapted from the novel "Jewel" by Claire Louise Burnham, it is something decidedly new in the art of the screen. Lois Weber has taken the enchanting story and transferred it page by page to the screen. Its characters fairly live, and its entertaining story sends the spectator home with a memory that will linger for a long time.

The story is that of a little child, granddaughter of an embittered millionaire, who introduced into a household split by family strife, by her innocence and optimism, works a miracle and brings happiness to replace hate. Its deep heart-interest is achieved by artistic touches of humor. Throughout the genius of Lois Weber, who secularized and directed the picture, and the masterful acting of Claude Gillingwater, who introduced into a household split by family strife, by her innocence and optimism, works a miracle and brings happiness to replace hate.

The picture is a masterpiece of the screen. The scenes in the millionaire's estate are set in one of California's most famous homes, and several vistas of rare beauty add to the attractiveness of the picture. The action throughout is smooth and tranquil. The picture was designed to teach a great truth and to accomplish this it had to be true to life. Hence, every scene was taken to avoid over-acting or episodes which might suggest the theatrical. Unquestionably "A Chapter in Her Life" is the most unusual picture story, and one that will make a lasting impression on all who see it. You will easily and something bright and happy in life if you take the story to heart. And a little child is the one who opens your eyes to this fact. Don't miss this picture treat.

"Vengeance of the Deep," a picture of extraordinary worth and containing power, is to be the second feature for the first part of the week. It is a rocks, amiships, putting the dynamites out of commission and rendering the ship helpless all through the long night. The destroyers struck the rocks at 9:15 p. m., and it was not until 8 o'clock the following day that the crew of the Nicholas was taken off on rafts. Excerpts from the latter which tell vividly of the experience follow.

Lowell Boy on Wrecked Destroyer

"I have just been through one of the worst disasters the navy ever experienced and seven torpedo boats are a total loss. We were wrecked at Point Honda, sometimes known as the Devil's Jaw. We hit the rocks at 9:15 p. m., on Saturday night. I was in my hammock reading and the crash threw me out on the floor.

"The captain gave orders for no one to leave the ship, telling us that if any man did leave he would be crushed to death by the waves heaving against the rocks. All the lights were out on account of the vessel striking amidships near the engine rooms. We had to stay on the top side all night until 7:45 o'clock the next morning.

GLORIA SWANSON AND HUNTLEY GORDON IN "BLUEBEARD'S EIGHTH WIFE" SHOWING AT THE MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE STARTING SUNDAY

PROGRAM AT MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Novel of theme and treatment, splendidly produced and every role portrayed by a thorough screen artist, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," a Paramount Production, starring Gloria Swanson, is announced for a week's engagement at the Merrimack Square theatre beginning this afternoon.

This spectacular and lavish photoplay has been exhibited in a few of the larger cities of the country at advanced prices and has been generally acclaimed one of the best pictures, not only of the present year, but of all cinema history.

Gloria Swanson's latest Paramount picture, produced by Sam Wood, is a picture of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." It is said to afford Miss Swanson one of the strongest roles of her screen career, and what her woman admirers will delight most, perhaps, provides her with ample opportunities for the display of amazing powers.

The story is that of a beautiful daughter of French nobility whose father is impoverished and wishes to marry her off to a man of wealth. His wish becomes reality when a rich American meets and falls in love with her. She also loves him.

Then it is learned that the American is a "youthful bluebeard" and has been married seven times. One wife, it is learned, died. The other six he divorced. Miss Swanson as the wealthy wife is shocked by the cold blooded business arrangement made of her marriage and determines she will not be like the other wives divorced.

For the last three days of the week, starting Thursday, "Lorna Doone," a Charlie Tourneur production, and Charles Jones in "Snowdrift" will be shown.

In connection with the showing of "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" at the Merrimack Square theatre all next week, the management has made arrangements to present a lavish style show. The gowns worn in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife" are the most elaborate, both in style and quantity, seen in any photoplay production in months.

Ten beautiful models will gracefully walk across the stage of the theatre twice daily at 1:40 and 5:10 p. m., exhibiting the latest ideas in fall wear for women. Doris Bramson, Whitehouse of Boston will be in general supervision of the presentation and the firms co-operating with the theatre in the show are the following:

Maker & McCurdy, Inc., Belmont; Gown Shop, Boston; Rose Jordan Hartford, hats; Zena Clark Craig, hats; Rosa D. Cassa, furs; George E. Mongeau, shoes; French Specialty Shop, lamps.

ROYAL THEATRE
The management of this theatre has arranged a splendid program for Sunday, "Vanity Fair," the big Goldwyn special, and "The Tiptoe Scout," a good five-reel production, will be shown in connection with the usual four acts of selected vaudeville. In "Vanity Fair," Goldwyn offers one of the finest screen plays of the season, featuring well-known players, and offering this well-known story with all the embellishments made possible by the camera. A great show, and easy prices to suit all.

WEEKLY ASSEMBLY
The regular weekly assembly of the students of the high school will be held next Monday morning at 8:20 o'clock. Freshmen will meet in Cornhill hall and the other three classes in the Cyrus W. Irish auditorium.

Local Mills Turn to Liquidation of Stocks on Hand

SEASONAL BUYING POLICY THING OF PAST WITH MAJORITY OF PRESENT-DAY RETAILERS

Old-Fashioned Practise of Spring and Fall Ordering Has Definitely Gone By the Boards—Manufacturers Find They Have to Carry the Load as Merchants Provide Only for Immediate Needs—Periodical Depression Taught Wisdom of Present System

Seasonal buying by retailers is a thing of the past. The old order of things, where stocks were bought six months ahead, is no longer a part of the game. The so-called "hand-to-mouth" policy, derisively dubbed by jobbers, seems to have arrived to stay. The big post-bellum slump, which so disorganized values that buyers were compelled to buy only goods promising immediate turnover, seems to have driven home a lesson that it is hard to forget. Working on the policy for a lengthy period the retailer has become convinced that he increases his turnover. The manufacturer and the jobber, instead of the retailer, has to carry the load which satisfies the retailer immensely.

Retailers have been firmly converted to the new way of buying and seem to be committed to it. Jostling and threats have been resorted to in an effort to win them back to the old manner of buying but without avail. Even rising prices, always considered the best guard to get retailers into the market for goods that they might need in the immediate future, have failed to upset the security manifested on the present plan.

Manufacturers naturally are disappointed over this policy as the burden is theirs to carry. Instead of taking orders in advance of the season and using these orders as a basis of bank credit, the manufacturer finds himself required to finance his business from his own funds. He must buy his raw material, pay out his money to prepare the product for the market, have it ready to deliver and then wait for the retailer to relieve him of it.

The necessity of having made up stocks ready for delivery when retailers feel in the mood to buy is hurting the little manufacturers who cannot weather the financial strain.

In addition to the economic factor in the problem we have the style factor. It used to be that styles were set in advance of the wholesale season and remained fairly rigid until the season had passed. Not so today. Styles had passed, constantly. The retailer, not knowing today what will be the rage a month hence, is watchful in his buying that he does not become overstocked with something that is due to pass out. He feels he must keep sufficient reserve to jump into any market.

As an instance let us take shoe styles. Something becomes the rage overnight and sells exceptionally well for a brief period. The retailer must stock up and dispose rapidly to be in on the melon-cutting.

As a result the shoe salesman has got away from the old stunt of paying probably two visits a year to his customers and as a rule makes calls about once a month or every six weeks. Seasonal openings are still maintained, but style changes occur without heed of opening dates and retailers and factories must both be ready to jump into the breach and meet the demand. Production has been speeded up to such an extent that where two months was usually required to put an order through almost any factory will make delivery within six weeks now and the majority will cut that time to nearer two on rush orders.

Manufacturers seem to have become satisfied but not reconciled to the fact that seasonal buying is never to come back. As a result they are not as strenuous in their efforts to cause a revival of the old custom. Instead they are bending their energies to devise ways and means of meeting the new attitude of buyers.

Advance orders are still placed and always will be. But the volume that was so marked in the "good old days" is sadly lacking. Straw hats of course are still ordered eight months or so in advance. The business it would be just as well to order the spot demand in the early spring. This feature holds of course with most strictly seasonal merchandise. Strictly seasonal merchandise however is becoming less of a tangible proposition. Furs are now worn in summer as in winter. Chiffon stockings sold as well last winter as cotton and wool. Low shoes for men and women are an equal demand in winter as they do in summer. Many men wear knee length underwear the year round.

This is natural with the well-developed use and popularity of street cars, motors, steam-heated buildings, heated trains and other comforts of the winter that were not available in the days when seasonal buying first came into vogue.

Believe Slump is Over as They Prepare to Handle Increased Demand Now Becoming Evident

Buyers at last realizing the futility of holding off their purchases in hopes of better prices, have commenced to place orders for goods generally throughout the trade. Lowell mills getting their share of the business. An improvement in the fine goods market, with a general price increase, is noted. Sales of combed cloths, especially among the staple plain constructions, were in greater demand during the past week.

The bulk of general demand, which up to a short time ago embraced only cotton and rayon, has at last widened and takes in practically all of the standard constructions. Interest in pongees has been awakened and lawns, probably the most dull of all goods during the depression period, are commencing to become active and are registering steady advances.

The volume of buying has not been as heavy as was confidently expected. This is mirrored most noticeably in Lowell by the new curtailment of this week at the Hamilton mills which has shut down two weave sheds. Lack of orders is given for the reason of this week. The action gives added credit to rumors in some quarters that many mills are at the present moment devoting more attention to liquidation of stocks on hand than to hustling for contract orders.

The outstanding feature of the week has been the radical increase in the spread between the quotations of middling and those of strict middling. The excessive rains, particularly in the Delta and in the eastern part of the cotton belt, have had a very serious effect on the cotton, which is opening much faster than it can be gathered, according to reliable advices from various southern points. For this reason many of the large shippers in these sections are refusing absolutely to quote on strict and good middling, and will offer nothing higher than middling, preferring, rather to sell strict low.

The result, so far as the New England market is concerned, has been that the extra long staple length, strict middling is now selling practically one cent higher than middling and sometimes as much as three cents. On the other hand, there is a spread of a cent to a cent and a half between strict low middling and middling. On the shorter ended types such as can be had out of Texas, the grade differences are not so wide, but at that they have been increased to 50 points between middling and strict middling, and range from 25 to 50 points between strict low and middling.

Because of the big increase in the grade differences, the jump in price quotations, it looked as if from the strict middling basis, seems much greater than if comparisons were made on a middling or a strict low middling basis. The latter figuring, if anything lower than it was a week or two ago.

Spots are priced on approximately the same basis of value as fall shipment, except in rare cases, though there is but little old crop short cotton available in this section. Dealing on basis at the mill's call and in most cases the mills have not yet fixed the price, even in instances where the cotton is already on the way north. Practically the only sales of domestic cotton made on a flat price are old crop offerings, usually in the extra staple lengths.

Shorter Cottons
Boston which does most of the Lowell buying and Fall River were reported to be buying moderately of the lower grade shorter types. Strict middling in both lengths could be had for 30 points more than middling. On full inch and large volume by certain of the local mills, the quotation on middling ranged around 130 and 110 on December and for strict middling around 225 on, while for strict middling Boston lights the quotations ranged upwards from 300 on December, with most of them around 325 to 350 on. Middling could be had as low as 215 on but some asked 260 for it.

Demand for Egyptians
Some demand for Egyptians was expected, but these, too, have gone up in conformity with American cottons. A sizable bag of medium grade uppers is reported to have been bought in the Boston market at levels near 32 cents, but by the end of the week they were quoted upwards of 37 cents. Medium grade Sakel was offered around 35½ cents, while Egyptian was 37½ cents. For rough occasional inquiries were heard for spots in small quantities.

Uncertainty in Lawrence Mills
Lawrence, Sept. 22.—It is apparently difficult to arrive at a definite estimate as to actual conditions in the woolen and worsted manufacturing business just at present. Judging from the extent of current operations in the various local plants, it is believed to be a matter of general knowledge.

With the exception of the Ayer mill, which is operating on a four days per week basis, the local plants of the American Woolen Co., including the Wood, Washington, Prospect and Shawheen mills, are reported as operating on a practically normal basis. Some of the departments in the Wood mill are slack, it is reported, but this is caused more by a change in the conditions of conditions usually attendant upon the changing over from winter to the spring season output. In other words, the plant is finishing up on winter products and getting ready for the spring output and a general straightening out process of departments is in progress. Officials are reluctant as to predicting what the conditions will be when the "in between seasons" period is over.

Night Work Suspended
At the Arlington mills, it is reported that night work has been suspended at the top mill, where much commission work is done, but that in the plant proper orders are running full.

The worsted department of the Pacific is also operating on full time and production basis and it is stated there that no immediate curtailment is known of.

At Kimball's mill the carding and spinning departments are shut down and there is slackness also apparent in the weave room. Only fancy wools are manufactured at this plant; moreover, goods are manufactured only on order. Here, also, it is explained that the season change-over is taking place, which, to a degree, perhaps, explains the situation.

While there are rumors of the possibility of depression between now and the first of the year, yet among employees themselves there seems to prevail a spirit of optimism. They say that they would not be surprised if they should go on short time, but they do not expect that such a depression, if it should come, will last long.

Mill Men Uncertain
Among the mill men there exists apparently a spirit of uncertainty. "It is impossible to say at present just what the outlook is," one man says, and when asked as to what the future may hold, he replied "next month will tell the tale."

When asked as to what the prospects for a future year, another mill man said: "I wish I knew." He admitted that while orders are being received they are not coming in as fast as the management would like to see them come. However, judging from what is coming in, it would seem that the only thing the matter with the

He admitted that while orders are being received they are not coming in as fast as the management would like to see them come. However, judging from what is coming in, it would seem that the only thing the matter with the next year's convention of the International Mulespinner's will be held in Boston again, starting on the second Thursday in September. It is expected that this consolidation with the United Textile Workers will be completed.

A membership gain of 200 is noted for the past year.

LOCAL STOCK SALES AT BOSTON AUCTION
BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Auction sales of stocks reported this week at R. L. Day & Co.'s include:

100 shares of Lowell, 40.
100 shares of Boston, 75.
200 shares of Lowell, 125.
300 shares of Lowell, 105.

low middling and middling. On the shorter ended types such as can be had out of Texas, the grade differences are not so wide, but at that they have been increased to 50 points between middling and strict middling, and range from 25 to 50 points between strict low and middling.

Because of the big increase in the grade differences, the jump in price quotations, it looked as if from the strict middling basis, seems much greater than if comparisons were made on a middling or a strict low middling basis. The latter figuring, if anything lower than it was a week or two ago.

Spots are priced on approximately the same basis of value as fall shipment, except in rare cases, though there is but little old crop short cotton available in this section. Dealing on basis at the mill's call and in most cases the mills have not yet fixed the price, even in instances where the cotton is already on the way north. Practically the only sales of domestic cotton made on a flat price are old crop offerings, usually in the extra staple lengths.

Shorter Cottons
Boston which does most of the Lowell buying and Fall River were reported to be buying moderately of the lower grade shorter types. Strict middling in both lengths could be had for 30 points more than middling. On full inch and large volume by certain of the local mills, the quotation on middling ranged around 130 and 110 on December and for strict middling around 225 on, while for strict middling Boston lights the quotations ranged upwards from 300 on December, with most of them around 325 to 350 on. Middling could be had as low as 215 on but some asked 260 for it.

Demand for Egyptians
Some demand for Egyptians was expected, but these, too, have gone up in conformity with American cottons. A sizable bag of medium grade uppers is reported to have been bought in the Boston market at levels near 32 cents, but by the end of the week they were quoted upwards of 37 cents. Medium grade Sakel was offered around 35½ cents, while Egyptian was 37½ cents. For rough occasional inquiries were heard for spots in small quantities.

Uncertainty in Lawrence Mills
Lawrence, Sept. 22.—It is apparently difficult to arrive at a definite estimate as to actual conditions in the woolen and worsted manufacturing business just at present. Judging from the extent of current operations in the various local plants, it is believed to be a matter of general knowledge.

With the exception of the Ayer mill, which is operating on a four days per week basis, the local plants of the American Woolen Co., including the Wood, Washington, Prospect and Shawheen mills, are reported as operating on a practically normal basis. Some of the departments in the Wood mill are slack, it is reported, but this is caused more by a change in the conditions of conditions usually attendant upon the changing over from winter to the spring season output. In other words, the plant is finishing up on winter products and getting ready for the spring output and a general straightening out process of departments is in progress. Officials are reluctant as to predicting what the conditions will be when the "in between seasons" period is over.

Night Work Suspended
At the Arlington mills, it is reported that night work has been suspended at the top mill, where much commission work is done, but that in the plant proper orders are running full.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR REPORT GIVES BRIEF SUMMARY OF EMPLOYMENT NEWS

Textile Industry Shows an Appreciable Falling Off—General Review of Trade Conditions Throughout New England, New York, New Jersey and the Southern States—Bright Outlook is Forecast Feature

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22. The August industrial employment bulletin has been published by the department of labor. Employment in textiles and their products shows a drop of 3.8 per cent.

Of the 14 basic industries reported upon, stone, clay and glass products, tobacco manufacturing, iron and steel, railroad repair shops, food and kindred products, and leather and its kindred products, were the only industries showing increased employment. These increases ranged from .95 per cent to 5.6 per cent.

In the New England district, Maine reports practically all plants operating, with the shoe and cotton industries on part time basis, and seasonal slackening. Woolen is reported as running on a schedule.

New Hampshire reports the cotton industry operating on part time schedule, due principally to vacation periods. Woolen, worsted and printing industries are reported working overtime.

Vermont reports nearly all plants operating, and cotton mills have resumed operations with sufficient workers to meet demand. General slackening of industries noted, due largely to vacation periods. Shoe industry unusually busy, with a shortage of female workers in certain departments. Cotton mills and print works are on a four and five-day week.

Overtime in Rhode Island
Employment conditions in Rhode Island reported as satisfactory. All plants operating, with textile industry working on overtime schedule.

Connecticut reports slight curtailment in industrial activity, but that the woolen industry is operating on overtime basis.

In New York there is a shortage of low-salary white-collar help and knitting mills are increasing their activities and calling for workers. Department stores are reported in urgent need of saleswomen.

New Jersey reports employment in silk mills steady, but that there is a shortage of weavers. Textile plants are generally busy, with the exception of two cotton mills which have been affected by seasonal dullness. Spinning mills are becoming more active, and the labor situation in woolen mills is considerably eased. Handkerchief factories running full time.

Pennsylvania reports the usual seasonal dullness in industrial lines, with the common labor supply more elastic. Textile mills show a gradual improvement during the past month. A scarcity of female labor obtains in the shoe and hosiery mills.

Southern Mills Gain
In the southern district, Virginia reports increasing employment in cotton mills, though there is a general tendency toward slowing up in some lines.

North Carolina reports little unemployment, with cotton mills registering an appreciable gain.

South Carolina—an encouraging increase in employment was noted in the past month in cotton mills. Industrial activity continues at a healthy rate.

Georgia reports encouraging increase of employment in cotton mills. Tennessee reports industrial employment improved, with a satisfactory increase in employment in textile mills.

Bright Outlook Seen
"Generally speaking," the bulletin concludes, "industrial employment in this country today is on a satisfactory and sound basis, and the outlook for the future is one of the brightest in recent years."

NEWLY CABLED PRICES ON DISCUSS UNITY PLANS
Various Union Chiefs in Big Conference on Subject in New York Today

Committee of the United Textile Workers, and the Federated Textile Workers of America are meeting at the T. W. headquarters in New York today and tomorrow to draw up a plan by which unity of the various textile executive boards can be brought about. This meeting follows a conference of the executive boards of the two organizations in Philadelphia several weeks ago, and according to present plans, will be followed by another conference to ratify whatever plan of unity is adopted.

The T. W. committee is made up of President Thomas F. McLaughlin, vice president James Starr, John H. Powers, Toby Hall and Arthur McDonald.

The federated committee is made up of James Tansley, president of the American Federation of Textile Operatives, John O'Connell, secretary of the T. W. O'Connell, secretary of the International Mulespinner's Union, Lawrence Labrie, of the Tapestry Carpet Workers and William Borland, of the Amalgamated Operatives.

PERMANENT EXHIBIT FOR TEXTILE TRADES
A number of associations representing textile, clothing and affiliated trades have been invited by the American Association of Museums to cooperate in the establishment of permanent exhibits at the national capital showing progress of manufacture and finished products. Effort will be made to obtain suitable lodgment for certain of these exhibits in museums where they can be inspected by the public.

This is a feature of the movement to popularize museums and to make them serve the public interest along lines of industrial and commercial as well as in art, history and science.

The American Association of Museums is not as yet in a position to offer definite assurances of lodgment for textiles or clothing exhibits. Officers of the association, however, will use every effort to aid in finding suitable places for such exhibits, and expected that trade committees and conferences will be arranged later to develop the suggestions received from trade associations.

Included in the list of associations invited to participate in this movement are: Winston D. Adams, American Cotton Manufacturers Association; J. J. Nevin, American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers; American Cloth and Suit Manufacturers Association; W. R. Warren, Associated Glove Manufacturers; Charles Teidman, Associated Flower and Feather Manufacturers; P. R. Newell, Association of Cotton Textile Manufacturers; Joseph W. Randall, Carded Woolen Manufacturers Association; Irwin J. Selig, Commercial Textile Association of the Leno, Embrulley and Allied Trades; Thomas H. Hall, Fabric Glove Manufacturers Association; Andrew Baehner, Fine Cotton Goods Exchange; Theodore C. LeFevre, Lace and Embroidery Association of America; Frank H. Harlowe, Linen Supply Association of America.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—The Boston News Bureau quotes William M. Wood, president of the American Woolen Co., today as follows: "C. W. Barron, Boston News Bureau—have had chance to assemble my thoughts. If five million suits on hand instead of one it would then be nothing startling. Think retailers in splendid shape for buying. Think manufacturers of clothing have operated conservatively, with little stock on hand. Industry in splendid shape. Collections never better. London wool market advanced and wool firm. Have certain orders enough to run all our mills at full capacity for four months. Notwithstanding this, further curtailing possible in individual mills not adapted for certain goods. We are on whole in excellent shape. Relatively few goods on hand unsold. (Signed) WILLIAM M. WOOD.

LOW WATER TIES UP TOWN'S INDUSTRIES

Fifteen hundred employees of the plant of the American Woolen Co. at Filton, N. Y., returned to work Friday following a shutdown, only to be sent back home on orders of barge canal officials that the plant remain closed until water in the Oswego river reaches a higher level.

A dozen or more other manufacturing concerns, employing more than 1000 people are thrown out of work by the order which means a loss of more than $100,000 in wages and a heavy loss to the factories for overhead. Plants in Filton, Oswego and Phoenix are affected.

This is the fourth or fifth time this summer that the woolen plant has been forced to close down due to low water.

JAPANESE RELIEF FUND
The towns of Billerica and Bedford have subscribed the sum of $350 for the Japanese relief fund. Of that amount $100 was donated by the Red Cross of Billerica. Bedford's share of the fund is $25. Of that amount $15 was donated by the Red Cross and $10 by the residents of the town. The quota for the two towns was $200.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Stock prices today recovered from recent heaviness. Food, rubber, steel equipment and oil shares were lifted to higher grounds, several of the leaders gaining a point or more. Speculation of recent selling pressure and the failure of bear operators to unearth any actual weak spots brought about a fair volume of short covering over the week-end. Bulls were bought on speculative expectations of favorable August earnings statements, the eastern harvest being most in demand. The closing was firm. Sales approximated 30,000 shares.

Confused prices took place at the opening of today's stock market. United States Steel, Republic Steel, American Can and other industrial leaders were fractionally higher on initial sales. Reading gained a point. Closes opened unchanged at 24 on a sale of 1000 shares, indicating that the market had discontinued the directors' omission of the dividend.

Prices moved within limits in the first half hour with the general list displaying a firm tone. The demand was most effective in the rails, independent steels, sugars and rubber. Gains of a point or so were recorded by American Can, Gulf States and Republic Steel. Goodrich Rubber preferred and Willamette-Oregon preferred, American Woolen was under pressure. Foreign exchange opened steady. French francs selling above 600 cents.

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 11

Jack stood in front of the gate waiting for it to open and let him pass. But it didn't move. Mother Earth smiled and explained that the fork would not open unless Jack left all the silver presents behind him. "If you want to keep those presents you will have to stay here," she told him.

Jack decided that he did not want to stay in Silver Cavern the rest of his life so he put the silver things down on the ground. And almost immediately the great fork gate swung open, and Flip dashed into a great ray of light. "Walk right through, and into Golden Gorge," said Mother Earth.

When Jack reached the other side of the doorway, the things were so bright that it hurt his eyes. "Here," said a wee little voice, "put on these gold-rimmed glasses and you will be able to stand the brightness of Golden Gorge." And a pretty little girl held the glasses out. (Continued.)

JOHNNY JACK'S SHADOW

AND HE BEGAN TO BREAK OFF GREAT BUNCHES WITH HIS TEETH

Johnny Jack Rabbit was having the most beautiful time. He was playing with himself or rather he was racing with his shadow.

"I'll bet I can beat you to the aspen tree," he panted, starting to run again without waiting for an answer.

Suddenly he began to chuckle. "I'll fool him," he said to himself. "I'll fool him. I'll make him stop. I'll put my wind-brake and stop so quickly, he'll go on ahead and not notice where I've gone. I'll hide in that patch of sweet clover and he'll never find me. I'm tired of him going everywhere I go."

Johnny Jack looked ahead on his long legs for a minute or two, his shadow sticking close beside him, neither getting ahead nor behind, and no wonder it made Johnny nervous.

All at once Johnny stuck his enormous ears forward like sails on a cat boat (his "wind-brake" he called them) and it stopped him as suddenly as a windmill. He looked without a look to right or left, he slid into the patch of sweet clover that grew ten times as high as his head, and stopped. It was like going into a forest, all dark and quiet and sweet smelling with not a bit of sunshine anywhere.

Johnny looked around carefully.

PUTTING SNOW PLOWS IN SHAPE FOR WINTER

During the past month the repair crew at the Middlesex street barn of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway company has been working steadily on the company's snowplows and Supt. Thomas J. Sayers received word today that every plow is now in readiness for operation when needed.

The snow fighting equipment of the local division consists of five brushless mounted on double-truck cars, seven double-truck shear plows, and one one-man double-truck scraper. This equipment is considered sufficient for fighting any storm that might visit Lowell during the coming winter.

The five brushless have been renewed, new sections replacing worn parts, the motors running the brushes have been completely overhauled, and the cars on which the brushes are mounted have been painted. New edges have been placed on the shear plows and they have also been painted.

The Lowell division has one of the largest territories of any of the divisions of the Eastern Massachusetts to keep open. Included in this division is the Lawrence line to Merrimack park, the Reading, Lakeview, Billerica, Chelmsford, North Chelmsford and Tyngsboro lines, all of which run through open country, and all of the "backbone" in the city proper.

The task of keeping these lines open during the winter is stupendous. Often the plows and brushes are kept running for 70 hours on a stretch and it is not unusual for the operators on these cars to work 24 or 30 hours without sleep. During the past winter there were several operators who worked in consecutive hours, time off being taken for meals but not for sleep.

Despite the large territory coming under the Lowell division, Supt. Thos. J. Sayers said today that Lowell has the reputation of keeping its rails open in many cases where other divisions nearby are snowbound, and he attributed this to the fact that the men operating the plows are all experienced men who are doing their best for the company at all times.

DECISION ON MURDER INDICTMENTS MONDAY

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Lively verbal clashes between Attorney John P. Feeney and District Attorney Arthur K. Reading yesterday in the East Cambridge court featured the hearing on the validity of the grand jury indictments returned against Dr. William M. Robb and Dr. Dwight H. Swope, in connection with the death of Mrs. Alice M. Wolschendorf, Tyngsboro, Massachusetts. The argument was brought to a close after two hours of clashing, when Judge McLeod decided to take the matter under advisement and return a finding Monday.

The Middlesex county prosecuting attorney, who had called the "high-powered array of attorneys," retained to defend the two physicians, charging that their motion to have the indictments declared invalid was simply a ruse to delay the trial and to disclose the government's case.

As an spokesman for the defense, Attorney Feeney launched a wordy attack upon the prosecution, insisting that the indictment was obtained illegally. He openly charged that a person not a member of the grand jury was present when the secret ballot was taken indicting Dr. Robb on first degree murder. He also charged that the indictment was brought without any evidence.

"I can produce a long line of cases to set a precedent for what I seek," said Attorney Feeney.

"Do it now," interrupted District Attorney Reading, who had become somewhat nervous and excited.

"I cannot," shouted Mr. Feeney, glaring at the district attorney. "You are not questioning me just yet and I don't think you ever will."

Then Attorney Feeney produced an enormous pile of typewritten sheets containing precedents and citations to support his arguments. He furnished the bench and even the district attorney with carbon copies of these.

On the other hand, the county prosecutor offered a stack full of law books and typewritten documents to prove that Attorney Feeney was wrong in his argument.

"I think these motions brought asking for a petit jury trial in determining the legality of the indictment were simply brought to delay this case and to force the prosecution to a disclosure of its evidence," District Attorney Reading argued spiritedly.

Reading argued that these lawyers think that they will get a jury trial to decide the validity of the indictment," said the district attorney. "Such a thing would mean that a grand jury would be on trial before a petit jury. No court has ever granted such a jury trial as these defendants seek."

The following attorneys appeared yesterday for the defense of the two doctors: John P. Feeney and Frederick M. J. Sheehan for Dr. Robb, charged with first degree murder, and James W. Murdock, Frederick G. Katzmann, former district attorney of Norfolk, Plymouth district, and Judge John H. Vane of Plymouth for Dr. Swope, charged with being accessory before and after the fact.

BOILERMAKERS AND HELPERS' UNION

A largely attended meeting of the members of the Boilermakers and Helpers' union of the Boston & Maine Federated crafts was held last evening in their quarters in Old Fellows' building, Middlesex street. Routine business was discussed and the time business at the B. & M. car shops in Fall River was discussed at length. Various committees submitted interesting reports and the meeting was brought to a close with a social hour.

It was stated at strike headquarters in Old Fellows' building this morning that strikers are all holding fast and they expect a turn for the better will soon take place. Of the great number of men who are out on strike since a year ago last July, less than ten per cent. of them have applied for work at the shops. The relief committee stated that there is not one name on the relief list, as all the strikers have secured work elsewhere and are now in condition to support their families. A great many of the workers, who are living out of town have returned to their homes.

WARD USED IN BLACKMAIL PLOT

Young Man Accused of Murder Used in Plot to Extort Money From His Father

Sworn Affidavit Introduced During Murder Trial at White Plains, N. Y.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 22.—Walter S. Ward was used in a plot to extort money from his father, George S. Ward, wealthy baker, according to a sworn statement introduced yesterday at the trial of the younger man for the murder of Clarence Peters.

This is the first time a tangible indication as to the nature of the alleged blackmail plot, said by the accused to have extorted in the shooting, has been made known.

The affidavit was made August 1, 1922, about 10 weeks after the shooting, by James Cunningham, race track follower, who was arrested about a month previous as a material witness. He was alleged to have told Sheriff George Warner that he knew the "inside" of the Ward case.

It was alleged in Cunningham's affidavit that the obscure blackmailers "Ross" and "Togers" attempted to extort money from the elder Ward by presenting to him the son "and to induce immorality and immoral acts." The wealthy baker refused to pay, according to the affidavit, and started an investigation.

Counsel for and against Ward will have the week-end to rest from the nerve-fraying trial.

The campaign will close next Monday.

TRIBUTE FROM G. A. R. STRIKERS SET UPON REPORTER

Striking Commendation for Work of Training Camps at Devens Sent Sec. Weeks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—A striking commendation for the work of the summer military training camps at Camp Devens, Mass., reached Secretary Weeks today from John A. Brackett, commander of General Lawton Post, G.A.R., Lawrence, Mass., who with his Grand Army comrades attended the military exercises of the closing day at the camp. The communication is an official one, the Grand Army veterans having voted that it should be sent to the secretary.

"We were taken back in memory some 50 years or more," Commander Brackett wrote, "when we, as young as these boys, without the scientific training they have received, were sent into the field to defend the Union. At that time, medical science was not what it is today. With the best of intentions the government did not provide all the facilities for maintaining the health of its armies that we now deem essential."

"Today at these camps, the student receives far more that is for his benefit than the training that is especially needed for military service."

"Some 15 hundred young men have now a better physical stamina and the knowledge how to maintain it. Coming from all stations of society, they have had the democratic spirit instilled into them and have seen as an object lesson, the son of the president performing all the menial duties of camp life."

"Instead of 1800 students there ought to be 10 times that number next summer who will take the training."

JOHN TWIDDLE, WHO HAS BEEN WORKING ON A FLY SWATTING INVENTION, FOR TWO YEARS, HAS GIVEN IT UP UNTIL NEXT SPRING AS THE FLY SEASON HAS JUST ABOUT RUN OUT FOR THIS YEAR

TEXTILE SCHOOL TEACHER

PERSONNEL CHANGES

The Lowell Textile school will reopen for its 25th year on next Monday, Sept. 24th. Registration will take place in the morning and from the number of application received, it is now evident that the classes this year will be even larger than last year.

The school festivities will begin about mid-morning when the new students will gather in the school auditorium to be welcomed by President Charles H. Eames. Following Mr. Eames' welcome, the freshmen will be at the mercy of the sophomore class. About noon the "freshies" will arrive in the square and go through stunts ordered by the sophs and enforced by paddle, club and stick.

Several changes have been made in the faculty of the school during the vacation period. The position of assistant professor in electrical engineering, left vacant by the resignation of Mr. Chandler on account of ill health, will be filled by Percy C. Lund, B.S., E.E., a graduate of the University of Vermont and recently a teacher at Wentworth Institute, Boston.

Holley S. Winkfield, formerly in charge of the mechanical drawing and drafting department, will be missed this year. Professor Lester W. Ball, B.S., E.E., a graduate of Tufts who has worked at the Caswell glass plant in Lynn and at the Portsmouth navy yard, will take his place in the faculty.

A resignation in the chemistry department has been filed by the appointment of Edward W. Scripture, S. B., a graduate of Harvard university of Vermont and recently a teacher of chemistry at the University of Vermont. He will be replaced by a new instructor in that subject, replacing Henry Goller, who graduated last June.

Miss Agnes Talsey, registrar of the school for several years, resigned during the summer months to take up similar work in the west. Her position has been filled by Miss Ruth Fouts, an A. B. graduate of Boston university who holds a B. S. degree from Simmons. Miss Fouts has been a registrar at Yale university for the past eight years.

HIBERNIANS PLAN MONSTER CARNIVAL

One week from next Monday, the Hibernians of Lowell will conduct a monster carnival in the Casino in Thorndike street for the benefit of the building fund. The carnival will continue from Oct. 1 to Oct. 6 inclusive and indications point to a highly successful affair. Booths will be erected along the pavilion and novelties of every description will be raffled off. All persons interested in the affair are requested to meet in A.O.H. hall, Grosvenor building, tomorrow night or Sunday.

A motion that the committee rescind its action in approving of a public banquet after the reception, was lost, and the suggestion made that Sullivan's friends could hold a complimentary banquet among themselves if they so wished.

A vote of thanks was extended to the management of the Opera House for an invitation to use that theatre and its stock company for a benefit performance on some Monday evening. The management has agreed to the plan, and a committee, composed of Secretary Flannery and Harry Glash, will confer with the management and arrange for the sale of tickets and other incidentals.

Y. D. Chaplain, Now Ill

MARBLEHEAD, Sept. 22.—Rev. Lyman Rollins, chaplain of the 101st infantry in the World war, who is now in a serious condition on a farm in Enfield, N. The money was raised by local organizations in cooperation with the American Legion by an entertainment on the closing day of the Legion state convention here this month.
